Divided U.S. Honors
Heritage of Freedom

By DON MCLEOD

WASHINGTON (P)—America turns 194 today and her children gathered to celebrate her birthday, trying not to notice the lines of travail etched over her rugged features.

Most of her citizens scurried to beaches, mountains, lakes and parks for their own entertainment, while her policemen strove to get them back home alive.

But many are pausing to honor the day in 1776 when a few brave men declared the 13 colonies an independent nation.

There was disagreement over the plans for celebration, over the Vietnam war, the economy, the generation gap, but a spirit of compromise was strong.

President Nixon, for whom critics say Honor America Day is being produced, planned a quiet day conferring at San Clemente with his Paris peace negotiators, David K. E.

California drivers jumped into an early and unsought lead in the 4-day, Fourth of July highway death race Friday night.

With only one day behind them, the state's motorists had already accounted for 21 deaths, nearly a fifth of the national total of 110.

Overall, the National Safety Council said the toll was running behind the 1969 toll, which had 180 dead after just 28 hours.

BUT A COUNCIL spokesman said an outright comparison to the toll of 1969 may be misleading because July 4 was on Friday last year and more firms gave their employees the day off.

A United Press International count at 8 p.m. PDT showed 110 persons have died in highway accidents since the holiday period began Thursday.

A breakdown of accidental deaths showed:
Traffic 110
Drownings 30

Eight traffic deaths were reported in Illinois and Florida and six each in Texas and Washington state.

Three autos and a semi-trailer truck collided and burst into flames on U.S. 51 about 20 miles south of La Salle, Ill. At least five persons were killed and 10 others were injured.

A $35,000 yacht, stolen from its berth in Marina Del Rey three days ago, was found abandoned Friday night at the Land's End Marina in Long Beach, sheriff's deputies said.

The 36-foot ketch Mahia was discovered about 5 p.m. by the manager of the marina at 1835 W. Seventh St.

The yacht, owned by Maurice Morton, 56, of Marina Del Rey, disappeared from its mooring July 1, according to Deputy John Musson.

BARCELONA, Spain, Saturday — Port authorities said today they had spotted the wreckage of the chartered British jetliner with 112 persons aboard which was reported missing Friday night on a flight to Barcelona from Manchester, England.

The wreckage was on land near a mountain north of Barcelona, authorities said. Earlier reports had said the plane might have plunged into the sea.

Officials said they had no immediate report of survivors.

The Comet plane of Dan-Air Airlines, which carried 105 vacationers and a crew of seven, made its last contact with the ground about 7 p.m. when it came into the landing pattern of Barcelona airport. It was 12 miles out and about 6,000 feet high at the time.

Shortly afterward, the plane, which had apparently had a routine flight from Manchester, disappeared from radar screens.

Navy vessels and reconnaissance aircraft searched sea and mountain areas through the night.

"We do not have much hope of finding anything before daybreak, but we will try, nevertheless," a navy spokesman said.

In London a spokesman for Dan-Air said the passengers, all British, included 48 men, 53 women, three children, and an infant. The crash was the fourth in the last 10 years of a British charter flight en route to Barcelona.

Five Dead, 22 Hurt in

Troops Hit
by Grenades,
Guns, Bombs

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Roman Catholics and British troops battled in the streets of Belfast Friday night with guns, grenades and bombs.

At least five civilians died, 22 others, 12 civilians and 10 British troops were injured and three buildings, including a newspaper office, were blasted, army spokesmen said.

The army tried to clamp a 10:30 p.m. curfew on the city, but the fighting went on. The army announced it had "brought down" two snipers in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area. It did not say if they were killed or wounded.

More than an hour after the curfew, 1,500 soldiers moving into the Catholic area, drew heavy sniper fire. An army spokesman said "our troops are being shot up from all directions."

THE TROOPS started arresting all civilians they could catch, but a crowd of 400 defiant Catholics fought them to a standoff with sticks of gelignite explosive thrown from behind barricades of overturned buses.

The rioters also tossed hand grenades and paving stones torn up with the aid of a set of air-hammers they seized from a construction site.

The Catholics were infuriated by army attempts earlier in the day to seize arms caches.

The deaths brought to 12 the toll in the latest outbreak of Catholic-Protestant rioting in Northern Ireland, touched off one week ago by the arrest of fiery, 23-year-old Bernadette Devlin, civil rights leader who represented a Catholic district in the British parliament.

200,000 JAR GEORGIA
Topless Rock a Shock

BYRON, Ga. (P)—An estimated 200,000 young rock music fans, many of them topless teen-boppers, poured into Georgia peach orchards Friday for a rock festival. Nude swim-ins and huge traffic jams kept some of them from the opening performance.

Cars were backed up for miles on roads leading to the festival, about 70 miles from Atlanta, and the roadways were clogged too, with hitchhikers and parked automobiles.

Police reported the crowd generally orderly, but one youth was wounded when stabbed by another. Police arrested the accused assailant and said he was high on LSD.

As many as 400 rock fans swam in Echeconnee Creek at one point and about 50 of them were nude. Numerous teen-aged girls walked bare-breasted through the area of the second Atlanta International Pop Festival.

The nudity brought complaint from some, indifference from others.

"Two topless teen-boppers just passed me," said one festival-goer. "But it's so common here that nobody really paid them any attention."

Gov. Lester Maddox said it was unthinkable that youths could conduct themselves in such a manner.

Bibb County Sheriff Jimmy E. Bloodworth, said, "We've got a state law that prohibits indecent exposure, but how are you going to lock up hundreds of people? I'm running a crowded jail now."

The smell of marijuana seemed to be everywhere and several young people walked through the crowd hawking marijuana and LSD.

Meanwhile, in Eatonville, Wash., several thousand young persons, many of them swimming in the nude, converged on a private ranch Friday for a three-day "picnic" that had all the appearances of an illegal rock festival.

The Alaskan natives from Stevens Village near Fairbanks were en route to Galena to fight an outbreak of forest fires.

The DC-3 was under charter to the Bureau of Land Management. It crashed about two miles from the airport after apparently suffering engine trouble.

McGRATH, Alaska (UPI) — A plane carrying 25 Indian fire fighters crashed on takeoff Friday, killing three persons and injuring nine.

The clouds that gathered over the Southland Thursday and Friday afternoons probably won't be back, he said, although there may be scattered cloudiness — and even a few raindrops — in some mountain areas.

Senators

Reagan

SACRAMENTO — State Controller Houston Flournoy said Friday 17,895 state employees probably won't get their paychecks Monday because of the Senate deadlock over Gov. Ronald Reagan's $6.59 billion state budget.

And the legislators won't get their own expense checks either, Flournoy said.

Flournoy condemned the budget deadlock as "indicrous" and warned the chances of fiscal disaster increase every hour. The state has been without a budget—the legal authority to spend its money—since the fiscal year started Wednesday.

THE SENATE was forced to an extraordinary Fourth of July floor session after negotiations between the Governor and Senate Democrats failed to break the prolonged deadlock on Reagan's budget Friday night.

Reagan rejected Democratic demands to add another $180 million to the $1.53 billion school support fund in the budget approved Thursday by the Assembly.

Republican leaders in the Senate have not called another vote since that budget failed 25-13, two votes short of the two-thirds margin for passage, in a late Thursday vote.

DEMOCRATIC caucus chairman Mervyn Dymally said no Democratic opponents to the budget had wavered in the 1½-hour session with the governor or in an hour Democratic caucus afterward. He said there was "no indication" any more Democrats would switch back to the opposition either.

Headache

Q. Three years ago my husband deserted me and my two children. I filed for divorce a year after he left but because the proceedings are lengthier in cases of desertion, the divorce wasn't final until this month. For the past three years I have been the sole support of my children and have been the head of the household. But, in spite of this, the Internal Revenue Service won't allow me to file my income tax as head of household. Instead, I have had to file as a married person filing a separate return. To me it has meant a difference of about $400. Isn't there anything I can do? D.P., Long Beach.

A head of household is a person who maintains a residence for dependents, and must be unmarried or legally separated or divorced, the spokesman said. He added that you are entitled to all other deductions, but simply are not eligible for the lower head of household tax rate until you are legally divorced.

Q. When our state income tax return was filed the first week of April, it showed a refund of $220 was due us from the Franchise Tax Board. COOLING DOWN TO 85

What's the weather going to be on the Fourth of July weekend?

"Great Fourth of July weather," said a spokesman for the Los Angeles Weather Bureau.

That means warm and fair, he said, although a slight cooling trend is setting in. High temperatures in the Southland will average around 85 degrees, compared with 87 on Friday. The mercury may drop to 82 Sunday.

The mountains will bask in low-80s temperature and most deserts will peak 100 degrees. Palm Springs and high desert areas are expected to top 110 — "in the shade."

The clouds that gathered over the Southland Thursday and Friday afternoons probably won't be back, he said, although there may be scattered cloudiness — and even a few raindrops — in some mountain areas.

There'll be plenty of smog in inland districts of the Los Angeles basin.

INTERNATIONAL U.S. Admits Shelling Cambodia Border Area

SAIGON — The U.S. command formally acknowledged today it has been shelling Cambodian border regions since U.S. troops were withdrawn from the neighboring country last Tuesday. U.S. military spokesmen also said two Americans were killed and seven wounded in two short but sharp firefights in the central and northern regions of South Vietnam. The formal acknowledgment that U.S. artillery was being used against Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia came as scores of fresh North Vietnamese troops were reported pouring into Cambodia from Laos to replace heavy losses the Communists suffered during the two-month American campaign there. A statement issued by the U.S. command said the artillery fire had been ordered "on the same basis as air interdiction missions."

Sihanouk Being Tried in Absentia

PHNOM PENH — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the former Cambodian chief of state who is now in Communist China, went on trial in absentia for treason Friday before a five-man military tribunal empowered to sentence him to death. The government of Premier Lon Nol has charged Sihanouk specifically with nine counts of collaborating with the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, responsibility for the death of more than 1,000 Cambodians and violation of the constitution. The charges constitute treason because Sihanouk allowed Vietnamese Communists to occupy Cambodian territory and he disarmed Cambodians, depriving them of their right to defend themselves. Sihanouk was ousted March 19 while he was visiting Moscow. He now resides in Peking where he has established a government-in-exile.

Russ Plan to Put More Food on the Table

MOSCOW — The Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party Friday unanimously approved an $8.1-billion five-year farm plan designed to put more meat, eggs, butter and bread on the table of every Russian family. The committee ended a two-day meeting with a speech by Leonid Brezhnev, the party chief. He said the state will increase its agricultural investment by 70 per cent over the next five years. Much of the money will go for increasing the output of meat, milk, bread, butter and eggs, items in chronically short supply.

Brandt, Pompidou Push for Europe Unity

BONN — Chancellor Willy Brandt told French President Georges Pompidou Friday the reconciliation of their two countries has achieved is an example of the kind of settlement West Germany seeks with the Communist-ruled countries of Eastern Europe. The German chancellor told Pompidou one of the main political problems facing them was the necessity to develop a policy of relaxation and reconciliation toward the peoples of Eastern Europe and to prepare for a European peace arrangement.

British Seek to Curb Immigrant Flow

LONDON — The British Conservative Party government announced plans Friday to stem still further the flood of mainly nonwhite commonwealth immigrants into Britain. It said in future commonwealth immigrants will be treated as foreigners. Home Secretary Reginald Maudling, in his first appearance before the New House of Commons, said the government will bring in legislation soon to put these decisions into effect. Britain currently has a nonwhite immigrant population officially estimated at 1,250,000 mostly from the Caribbean, West Africa, Pakistan and India.

Israeli Jets Pound Arab Missile Sites

TEL AVIV — Israeli jets pounded Egyptian SAM2 missile sites in the Suez Canal and Gulf of Suez areas again Friday. An Israeli spokesman said all the planes got home safely. He denied an Egyptian claim that two of the raiders had been hit. In Cairo, the Middle East news agency said three Egyptian soldiers were wounded in the raids, but there was no loss in equipment, the spokesman said.

Russ, Arabs Study U.S. Mideast Peace Plan

MOSCOW — An authoritative Middle East diplomatic source said Friday the Soviet Union and Egypt have agreed that the new American plan for peace in the Middle East contains some positive elements. The source said they may not reject the American proposal out of hand when the joint Soviet-Egyptian views are made known officially in a communique at the end of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's visit. The communique is expected Monday.

NATIONAL Polio Deaths Drop to Record Low---0

WASHINGTON — So far as the National Communicable Disease Center has been able to learn, there was not a single death from polio in the U.S. last year. The zero score is the first since regular polio surveillance began in 1955, according to the center's weekly publication, Morbidity and Mortality. Experts at the Public Health Service Center in Atlanta said Friday that it was extremely unlikely that there was ever a year totally free of polio deaths before vaccines against that infection were introduced during the mid-1950's.

Also in 1969, the weekly publication reported there were only 19 cases of paralytic polio. In the most recent pre-vaccine years there were almost always many thousands of cases of paralytic polio and deaths were numbered in the hundreds. In 1951, for example, about 20,222 cases of paralytic polio and slightly over 1,000 polio deaths were reported. In 1952 there were 21,300 paralytic cases and 1,400 deaths.

This pattern continued through the mid-1950s, but the number of cases began to dwindle after vaccine against the polio virus was introduced.

Rogers Flies to Saigon for Troop Talk

MANILA — U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers flew to Saigon today to discuss further withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam. He gave assurances while here that the U.S. would uphold its obligations to its southeast Asian allies. The meeting in Saigon is the annual Troop Contributors Conference, which includes representatives of all governments contributing military or support forces to the war in Vietnam. It follows the Annual Southeast Asian Treaty Organization ministers conference, which ended here Friday.

U.S. officials said the planned withdrawal of 150,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam by next spring will be the major topic at the six-nation TCC.

Federal Deficit May Hit $12.5 Billion

WASHINGTON — The Council of State Chambers of Commerce said Friday that the 1971 federal deficit could climb to $12.5 billion, nearly 10 times the Nixon Administration's estimate of $1.3 billion. A deficit exceeding $10 billion "is not only possible but probable," the council said, on the expectation that Congress will turn down revenue-raising measures proposed by President Nixon.

Penn Central Faces Power Failure

PHILADELPHIA — The financially troubled Penn Central railroad Friday faced the possibility that three huge power firms may pull the switch unless it pays them $2.2 million in back bills. The Philadelphia Electric Co., Consolidated Edison Co. of New York and the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. said in a federal court suit that each of them "has been obliged to consider discontinuing its energy service to Penn Central by reasons of its failure to meet its accounts billed." If the three utilities took action against the railroad it would mean its sources of electricity, gas and steam power would be cut off.

Foreigners Pay More to Live in N.Y.

UNITED NATIONS — The cost of living in New York is higher for foreigners than in 78 other cities where U.N. officials are stationed, a U.N. report showed Friday. No cost estimates were given, but New York City topped the list at 100 per cent. Next was Khartoum, at 99 per cent of New York, followed by Phnom Penh and Tripoli at 98 per cent. The least expensive cities were Nicosia in Cyprus and Valletta in Malta, recording 64 per cent of the New York level.

Truck Strike-Lockout Ends in Chicago

CHICAGO — Negotiators reached an agreement early Friday ending a 12-week Chicago area trucking strike and lockout and the trucks began moving within hours. "The trucks are rolling now," said Louis Peick, chief bargainer for the Chicago Teamsters Union. The pact gave the 37,000 truckers what they have been demanding since April and boosts wage hikes for drivers outside Chicago.

'CEASED TO EXIST' Mutineer's Wife Renounces Him

By PAT McDONALD
Staff Writer

Alvin Glatkowski, the 20-year-old Long Beach merchant seaman who helped hijack a munitions-laden freighter to Cambodia, says he wants to see his wife again but Florence Glatkowski said Friday her husband has "ceased to exist for me."

Mrs. Glatkowski, 19, made the remark in the course of a somber but fearless interview conducted at the modest home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Longenecker, at 5914 Wardlow Road.

"Even if Al were to be extradited to the United States, he'd face a death penalty or at least life in prison," said Florence Glatkowski, during a discussion of the March 14 escapade in which her husband and Clyde McKay, 25, forced the freighter Columbia Eagle into a Cambodian port.

"How can you be married to someone who's not going to exist?" the young mother questioned.

Days after her husband's part in the mutiny was confirmed by Cambodian leaders, the then six-months-pregnant Florence sought divorce action through Long Beach Legal Aid Society.

"The agency doesn't handle divorces as a rule, but it made an exception. No, the grounds aren't desertion. In California it must be incompatibility or incurable insanity."

DURING a long interview with them this week at the Cambodian naval base where they are held, Glatkowski and McKay asked several times to have a Russian correspondent or diplomats from the Soviet or Polish embassies to come and help arrange their new asylum.

"We want to leave Cambodia. There is nothing we can do from where we are now. I just can't walk down the street and go away. We are prisoners. And if the United States attempts to extradite us, I don't know what we'll do," said McKay, of Escondido.

If the United States did manage to extradite them — there is no extradition treaty at present — McKay and Glatkowski would almost certainly stand trial for mutiny and hijacking.

THE CAPTAIN of the Columbia Eagle, which was loaded with napalm and bound for Thailand when hijacked, has publicly recommended the two be tried and face the death penalty for their act.

"If we go back to the States we won't get a trial. They won't give us a trial," Glatkowski said, when he heard his captain's plan.

But the two don't plan to return to the United States. Glatkowski, who likes to wear a black beret, said "the only way to go back is with a gun. I'll go back to participate in a guerrilla war."

Manson Jury Still Incomplete

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

The slow process of selecting a jury in the Tate-La Bianca murder trial in Los Angeles Superior Court ended its third week Friday with 104 jurors called and 93 excused.

Although prosecutors said they expected the jury panel to be completed next week, defense attorneys refused to speculate.

Most jurors excused were dismissed for personal hardship reasons, but pretrial publicity issues have been playing a large part in the selection. Most jurors admit doubt as to the defendants' innocence because of news media reports on the trial.

CHARGED with the seven murders at the Tate and La Bianca homes are Charles Manson, leader of the hippie cult, and three of his followers, Susan Atkins, 21; Leslie Van Houten, 20, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 22.

One of the prospective jurors said under questioning by attorneys Friday he thought the death penalty was not "harsh enough punishment" for some crimes.

Postal clerk Michael Parrish said he opposed the death penalty because he felt punishment for certain crimes should be more severe.

"What did you have in mind, the rack and the screw?" asked defense attorney Paul J. Fitzgerald, who represents one of four persons on trial.

Parrish, who came in for extensive questioning by all sides in the case, finally conceded he would consider the evidence in deciding the penalty should he be selected as a final juror. He said he was not a "sadist."

Manson, sat quietly with a trace of a smile on his face during the exchange. The prospective juror was all but ignored by Manson's three female codefendants.

For the first time, refunds are being processed by computers. However, many of the 6 million returns filed between April 1 and 15 have had to be handled manually. Most of the refund checks will be finished by July 15 because interest, by law, must be paid on returns held after that date.

Wired

Q. We just bought an older house and, my husband is considering rewiring it himself. Is there any place we could get a book of instructions on how it should be done? A.S., Long Beach.

A. The Long Beach Library branch at 56th Street and Orange Avenue, rear of your house, carries the "Popular Mechanics Home Book of Electrical Wiring and Repairs" by Harold P. Strand. This book should supply you with the information, but before you start, you must be cleared by the Building and Safety Department. Anyone wishing to do his own electrical work in Long Beach must take a homeowner's exam held every Thursday at 8:45 a.m. in Room 105 of City Hall, according to electrical engineer associate Bashir Haghor. The exam tests the individual's electrical and building code knowledge and must be taken before one begins his own work. To receive instructions for the exam, send a self-addressed envelope to the Building and Safety Dept., 205 W. Broadway, Long Beach. Electrical codes may be obtained by sending $2.15 to the same address.

A Little Rusty

Q. Ever since we built our home on Seaside Walk near 63rd Place 10 years ago, we have been troubled by dirty brown water from all our faucets. Our laundry has been ruined time and time again. When we call the Water Department, they come out, turn all our faucets on, flood the alley and run up our water bill. Then the brown water comes back. Can ACTION LINE help us get clean water? C.R., Long Beach.

A. By now you have been contacted by Hal Levy, public relations official for the Long Beach Water Department, whose investigation shows your water is clear now. However, he promised to have them later analyzed the next time it appears dirty, and try to locate the problem. He added that it is possible the pipes in your own plumbing have become corroded, causing rust and dirt to appear in your water.

REACTION

Regarding your article June 24 about sales tax on take-out food orders, our drive-through restaurant has been told that it must charge sales tax on all food as long as there is one parking space on the premises where take-out orders might be consumed. Your article indicated drive-ins with take-out windows had the option of charging tax on food to go. A clarification to us from the state Board of Equalization said that, in our case, "all food sold in a form suitable for immediate consumption is taxable. This is true even though such products are sold on a take-out or to-go order and are actually packaged or wrapped and taken from the premises." We would gladly segregate our take-out orders, for tax purposes, from others if the Board of Equalization would allow us to. G.B., San Pedro.

Billy Sees Magic Kingdom —Before the Final Darkness

By BOB SANDERS
Staff Writer

There are few Tomorrows left for seven-year-old Billy Long of Des Moines, Iowa — but at least he saw Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom before the darkness fell.

Billy, who is terminally ill with an inoperable brain tumor, toured the big Anaheim amusement park Friday with his parents, two sisters, a brother and a cousin. The gleam in his one good eye lighted up the world of Goofy, Pluto, Mickey Mouse and the fairyland they inhabit.

For a while Billy could escape his world — the harsh, tragic world that has willed him total blindness and an early death. Wearing his light blue cowboy hat at the John Wayne angle and a smile as wide as the big park, he could forget the pain.

CHUBBY BILLY'S troubles began when he was born with a brain tumor. The ailment wasn't discovered until he was four years old, and shortly after the doctors found it the child's father was killed in a plane crash.

An operation in 1967 to remove the tumor was unsuccessful.

Two weeks ago his mother and her husband, James Exline, a $96-a-week fertilizer plant employee learned Billy would lose his sight within six weeks. One eye already was gone.

The verdict on the tumor was equally grim: "Inoperable and terminal."

That left Billy with no future and two wishes to be fulfilled. One was to go to Disneyland, the other was to meet comedian Red Skelton.

Disneyland came true Friday. He'll get the other wish Monday, thanks to Gov. Ronald Reagan, who has arranged for Billy to meet Skelton in Hollywood.

BUT FRIDAY was his big day. It was a joy made possible by the generosity of newspaper readers in Billy's home state. The story of Billy Long and his family so touched 200 persons that they contributed more than $2,500 for the California trip.

Before the money gifts began to rain on Billy, the Exline family had begun to sell its furniture to finance the trip. They had made the down payment on a 1968 station wagon. They were determined that Billy should have his day.

Then the magic began.

Gov. Reagan heard about Billy, telephoned Mrs. Exline and told her he had arranged for free passes to Disneyland. He promised to set up the meeting with Skelton, too. "At first the whole thing didn't seem real," said Mrs. Exline, 28. "But after a while I began to believe it. Now I really do."

But Billy always knew his dream would come true. He knew he'd have a personal chat with Mickey Mouse, knew he'd meet Goofy, Pluto, Pooh, Tigger and Eeyore. And he did.

It all came true Friday — the Mark Twain riverboat, the red fire engine and all the rest.

L.A. Police, Firemen Get Immediate 5.5% Pay Hike

The 9,300 policemen and firemen in Los Angeles were given an immediate 5.5 per cent pay increase Friday by the City Council, which also paved the way for further raises Jan. 1.

The unanimous council vote broke a week-long stalemate and drew cheers and applause from officers and their wives who jammed the chambers.

The 5.5 increase raised the basic scale for policemen and firemen from $797 to $940 monthly and $842 to $992 a month.

If the council takes final favorable action on the so-called Jacobs Jobs Classification Plan, tentatively implemented Friday, a man in the "Policeman II" or "Fireman II" classification will make a top salary of $1,049 a month.

The council action had the effect of deepening the city's deficit by $9.2 million. Only $3.75 million for salary increases was included in this year's budget, but the wage package will cost $12.9 million.

Mayor Sam Yorty immediately signed the ordinance into law.

Grand Jury Subpoenas Two

Two Chicago underworld figures have been subpoenaed for a July 16 appearance before a federal grand jury in Los Angeles, it was reported Friday.

They were identified as Tony Accardo, 68, and Paul Ricca, 72.

They will be offered immunity in return for testimony before a grand jury investigating alleged "skimming" at Las Vegas casinos, the Los Angeles Times reported. Skimming is secret raking of casino proceeds.

BUDGET CRISIS

their demand that the first $180 million of any tax reform bill enacted this session be set aside for schools "rather than for tax reductions for luxury homes for the wealthy few."

They insisted in a two-page letter handed the Republican chief executive that "we do not now advocate, nor have we ever advocated during this debate, a tax increase."

It was the first such meeting the Democratic holdouts had with the governor. They said it was arranged by Republican Senate leaders.

The Democrats, led by Senate Democratic floor leader George Moscone, urged Reagan to support a day-to-day "workload" budget if he rejected their appeals.

"SO FAR, I wouldn't know what a compromise would be," the Republican chief executive told an impromptu news conference. "No one has suggested anything that seems to be wrong with the budget that has come out of two conference committees now."

But Moscone said he was prepared to hold out for "months" if necessary. Republican Sen. Fred Marler, floor manager of the budget bill drafted by a second conference committee, said the GOP would not "cave in to the demands of Democrats."

"We'll meet each day in the Senate until a budget is passed," the Redding lawmaker said. "This means today, tomorrow, Sunday and so on."

The budgetless situation was a virtual carbon copy of last year when the state went without a plan for spending taxpayer money for three days past the start of the new fiscal year.

Assembly Democratic opposition to the budget crumbled Thursday and it was passed 62-15. The Senate defeated it on a 25-13 vote, two short of the 27 needed for approval. Despite rejection, it remained eligible for another vote.

ASSMBLY Speaker Robert Monagan, R-Tracy, said his house will not meet again until Monday.

If the Senate hasn't approved the budget by then, Monagan said, he will halt normal Assembly business to focus more attention on the Senate.

In his comments on the financial crisis, Flournoy explained that most of the state's 180,000 employees were paid on checks issued June 30, the last day of the old fiscal year. But the workers whose checks had to be adjusted for any reason are paid on a second payroll on the fifth of the month.

There is $3.1 million available in the old budget to pay the nearly 18,000 workers in that position this month, Flournoy said, but the signatures on documents backing up their checks may not be valid.

Members of the Legislature received their monthly checks June 30, Flournoy said, but their weekly expense checks won't be out on schedule Monday if there is no budget.

SMOKY FIRE ON SUNSET CUTS POWER

A failure in an underground power transformer touched off a stubborn fire and cut power to a section of Sunset Blvd. Friday.

Among the buildings which lost power were the Hollywood Palladium, the Aquarius Theater, Radio station KNX, and television station KNXT.

The trouble apparently started with a short circuit in a transformer conduit in the 6200 block of Sunset. The resulting fire blocked traffic for hours with billowing black smoke.

Department of Water and Power (DWP) crews cut out the transformer while three fire companies poured water and chemicals on the flames.

Once the fire was extinguished, DWP officials were unsure how long power would remain off.

City's Key Presented Scientology Figure

By NOEL SWANN
Staff Writer

Amid a roaring, standing ovation from 3,000 Scientology followers, Long Beach Mayor Edwin W. Wade Friday night presented the city's key to Diana Hubbard, daughter of the founder of the sometimes controversial religion.

The presentation in the Long Beach Arena marked the official opening of the group's 20th national convention celebrating the anniversary of "dianetics and total freedom."

EARLIER the followers had responded enthusiastically to a light show pagant of flags and banners representing various organizations within the religion termed by one speaker "the most vital movement on earth today."

And again there were standing ovations and thunderous applause when various church dignitaries read messages from and paid tribute to their spiritual leader, L. Ron Hubbard, whom one described as "the greatest being ... any time, anywhere."

Though Hubbard, one-time science fiction and screen writer who founded the religion, did not attend the convention, his presence was strongly felt.

Above the stage in the Arena stood a gigantic portrait of the leader, measuring about 18 feet by 12, in the pose of the Thinker, chin in hand.

Mayor Wade apologized to the gathering that he had not had the opportunity to "learn more about the science" before welcoming the Scientologists to their first convention in Long Beach.

"HOWEVER, I hope that when you return — and I hope that will be next year — that I'll be able to address you a little more capably," he said.

He then presented a key to the city to Miss Hubbard on behalf of her father and a bracelet to her.

Among key speakers at the next two sessions will be Dr. Thomas P. Szasz, a psychiatrist termed the "foremost critic of today's institutional psychiatry" and Washington lawyer John Joseph Matonis, who'll speak on human rights and mental health reform.

BOSS WRANGLER

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel shoulders a saddle after a hard, eight-hour ride during which he inspected trails in the Grand Teton mountains near Moose, Wyo. Grand Teton and other national parks are part of his domain. Hickel expressed concern that the average park visitor cannot reach remote wilderness areas. The problem, he said, "is getting the people here — beyond the roads. Every kid in the ghettos should be able to spend at least a month out here."

Demo Wild Spending Seen as Major Campaign Issue

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — President Nixon's chief domestic adviser Friday accused the Democrats in Congress of fiscal irresponsibility and said this would be a key issue in the November elections.

The remarks of John D. Ehrlichman, staff director of the President's new Domestic Council, represented the sharpest White House reaction yet to the first congressional veto override Nixon has faced since coming to office.

It appeared to signal the beginning of a major attempt to attach the label of wild spender on the Democrats and hold them partly responsible for the nation's recession-inflation spiral.

Congress last week overrode the President's veto of the Medical Facilities Construction and Modernization Act which Nixon had charged took "a long step down the road of fiscal irresponsibility" by overspending the federal budget and forcing him to expend all the appropriated money.

Ehrlichman's remarks came in a briefing for newsmen on Nixon's recent steps to streamline his domestic policy apparatus. Ehrlichman denied the President has downgraded the Cabinet by creating two new White House super agencies to supervise federal spending and set domestic priorities.

Ehrlichman, appearing jointly with George P. Schultz, director of the new office of management and budget, also insisted the White House "palace guard" does not isolate the President from his Cabinet.

"All this business about the powerful staff is ludicrous," Ehrlichman said. Nixon spent most of the day working in his Western White House on a bluff overlooking the Pacific.

The President planned to confer today for the first time with David K. E. Bruce, the new U.S. chief negotiator to the Paris peace talks, then spend the Fourth of July holiday with his family at their oceanside villa before ending a 12-day working visit to his native state.

Ehrlichman also was sharply critical of "congressional action in other areas."

Besides its passage of the Medical Facilities Construction Act, Ehrlichman cited the blocking by Congress of the President's attempts to "reform" the impacted school aid program earlier this year. He also said Congress had refused to eliminate 14 other programs the Administration found particularly wasteful.

"Hopefully we're going to get a new Congress," Ehrlichman said.

Ehrlichman said the domestic council will operate as a loosely knit group of subcommittees, relying not only on White House staff but on Cabinet members.

He said the department heads will play "a much more personal role" on the domestic council than they have within the Cabinet. He denied he will have his "hand on the spigot," shutting off from the President ideas he doesn't like.

Illegal Entrant Starves to Death in U.S. Jail

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (UPI) — A Canadian youth convicted of illegal entry to the U.S. died Friday after an 18-day hunger strike in jail.

Sheriff Bernie Reynolds said the youth, Robert L. Guest, 22, of London, Ont., apparently stopped eating about June 15 but it was not noticed until this week.

Guest was arrested June 12 in Blaine, Wash., convicted, and sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was being held in the Whatcom County Jail for federal marshals.

Undersheriff Lou Basallion said he tried unsuccessfully to get federal marshals to remove Guest this week, and then spent 2½ hours calling local doctors to get help.

A doctor finally arrived at the jail late Thursday and had Guest sent to St. Luke's Hospital, where he died at 3 a.m. Friday. Attendants said Guest apparently died of dehydration and starvation. An autopsy was ordered.

CELEBRATIONS

Bruce and Philip Hahl.

In the nation's capital crowds were gathering to hear the Rev. Billy Graham preach about revolution and patriotism. And entertainer Bob Hope assembled one of the city's most spectacular galas.

Black Americans in Milwaukee honored their war dead with a festival named for Crispus Attucks, a Negro patriot who fell in the Boston Massacre.

Actor Howard Keel will read the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia where it was proclaimed at the birth of a nation.

Hope and 90 other entertainers arrived here Friday evening aboard American Airlines "Spirit of 76" flight. The group will entertain at the Washington Monument Saturday night before the fireworks display.

Leading his flag-waving contingency into the terminal to cheers and applause from a crowd of about 400 persons, Hope's arrival had the appearance of his Christmas visits to U.S. servicemen.

plant American flags before the White House as part of the Honor America Day program.

The sponsors billed it as a program "to rekindle the spirit of patriotism and respect for individual liberties that made America great." It will begin in the morning with a memorial service.

Graham said he would talk of revolution and tell Americans that "the American dream is not finished yet."

GRAHAM SAID he hopes the problems of racism, poverty and pollution will be solved before the U.S. celebrates its 200th birthday.

Pat Boone will sing the national anthem. A rabbi and a minister will read the Scriptures. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and astronaut Frank Borman, first man to orbit the moon, will pray. Kate Smith will sing "God Bless America."

At 11 a.m. across the nation 2,000 railroad locomotives will grate their horns for two minutes in salute to America. Church bells will ring, carillons chime. Autos will honk.

Local communities from New York to Guam are staging their own Honor America parades and programs.

Honor America Day is in addition to the usual Fourth of July celebration in the capital. Its sponsors say it will be nonpolitical. They deny accusations that it is prowar.

"WE HAVE witnessed countless demonstrations against one aspect or another of American life," said Hope. "Now, we feel it is time to get out and demonstrate FOR something."

"This is not a July Fourth rally," disagreed Rennie Davis, one of the Chicago conspiracy trial defendants and an outspoken war opponent. "It's a war rally."

Davis predicted trouble, but other young people seemed more concerned with plans to hold a marijuana "Smoke-in."

The American Civil Liberties Union protested the decision to turn the monument grounds over to the Honor America celebration as "highhanded and unfair" and as reflecting "clear political bias."

The far right also disowned the effort as a disgraceful compromise.

Sponsors promised the evening entertainment will be strictly nonpartisan, and its participants come from both sides of politics and the war.

THE PROGRAM includes Jack Benny and Red Skelton, Glen Campbell, James Brown, the New Christy Minstrels, Miss America, Miss Black America, Barba Eden of "I Dream of Jeannie," Gail Disher of "Mannix," Les Brown and his Band of Renown, Fred Waring, Kate Smith, Connie Stevens, B. J. Thomas, Dinah Shore, Teresa Graves, Dorothy Lamour, Lionel Hampton, the Goldiggers, the Young Americans and Louis Armstrong, who will be celebrating his 70th birthday.

After the show the red rockets red will glare and the bombs burst in the air in the traditional fireworks display.

Hope has estimated 400,000 persons will attend the evening show and the fireworks display afterward, but a spokesman for the organizers said Friday he believed the estimate was "excessively optimistic."

No Troops to Israel, U.S. Says

White House Bars Intervening Despite Soviet Buildup

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — Although alarmed by the Soviet military buildup in the Mideast, the White House said Friday there were no plans for sending a U.S. military force into the area.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, responding to questions from newsmen, said it was the hope that the removal of Soviet pilots from Egypt could be arranged through negotiations.

BUT HE DID not rule out the possibility of a military presence to counter Soviet moves in the volatile area sometime in the future.

Ziegler's remarks were seen as another indication of the seriousness with which President Nixon views the activities of Russian pilots flying patrols for Egypt.

The President termed the area Wednesday potentially the most explosive area of American concern because, unlike Vietnam, it carries the risk of a direct confrontation between the Soviet Union and the United States.

"We have no plans to inject U.S. military personnel into the Middle East," Ziegler said. He added that the emphasis now was removing the Soviet pilots through political means.

Ziegler said the intelligence study ordered by the President on the military balance in the Middle East as a result of the Soviet pilots coming in had now been completed.

BUT HE declined to say whether Nixon planned to furnish Israel more jets as requested to counter Soviet strengthening of its Arab neighbors.

"We have just embarked on a new peace initiative in the Middle East and this is not the time to discuss the military aspects of the situation," Ziegler said.

"The study has been completed and that's as far as I am prepared to go."

Gun Display at Anaheim

Weapons that helped win America during the Revolutionary War are among thousands on display today, and Sunday at the Anaheim Convention Center.

Schools in Paramount Get Grant

A federal grant of $5,717 for the purchase of audio-visual and printed materials has been approved for Paramount Unified School District. Two parochial schools within the district boundaries, Our Lady of the Rosary and St. Patrick's in Lakewood, will also receive their requests through the public school application.

A large part of the money will be used to establish two more learning centers in district schools. They will be located at Los Cerritos and Paramount Elementary School where teachers may check out audio-visual aids for use in their own classrooms. Learning centers were established at Hollydale, Paramount Junior High, Collins, Mokler and Kepple schools and books have been purchased for the curriculum center and secondary school libraries under previous grants.

They're being shown by the California Arms Collectors Association, which is having its annual showing and meeting during the three days.

G. Robert Lawrence of Santa Ana, co-chairman of the event, says guns from all over the world are included, as are weapons used in the Colonial War and in winning of the West.

Lawrence said the weapons to be shown have an estimated value of $2 million. They include matchlocks, wheel locks, flintlocks and others dating to the 17th century.

Many of the weapons are for show only, and not for sale. Collectors and dealers will have some guns for sale, Lawrence said.

Since swapping weapons is a time-honored custom among gun collectors, guns will be traded.

Santa Ana Will Honor Industry

A "salute to Santa Ana industry" will feature a luncheon meeting of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce July 10 at the new Airport Inn.

Al Davis, who spent his youth in San Pedro and was educated there, and is now vice president of the California Manufacturers' Association at Sacramento, will be speaker.

Southland communities will celebrate the nation's birthday in traditional fashion today, with at least a dozen fireworks spectacles scheduled in adjacent cities.

Eschewing the unorthodox (Coronado will have a boat parade, Bridgeport will host a pie-eating contest and Sonoma has slated a massive pillow fight) area cities will stick with the same celebration that has become a habit for the nation over the 194 years since the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Biggest fireworks show in the immediate vicinity — for those who don't care to take their chances on highway or freeway — will be 13th annual Long Beach Firemen's Memorial Association fireworks and variety show at 7 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

THE VARIETY SHOW will feature Arte Johnson, the "very interesting" German soldier of TV's "Laugh In" show, Hobo Kelly, the Southern California Acro-Team and a vocal group called The Good Neighbors. Also highlighted will be the fire department's clown team and Miss Firefighter of 1970, Jennifer Houser. Tickets to the show are still available.

A second Long Beach fireworks program is offered admission-free by the city and takes place at 9 p.m. on the Pacific Terrace beachfront area. The exhibition lasts about 45 minutes.

Because fireworks sales and use are illegal in Long Beach, citizens normally turn out either for the firemen's show or the city-sponsored exhibition. The Long Beach police and fire departments have cancelled days off and assigned extra officers to duty today.

In adjacent communities, the Fourth of July will be celebrated in this fashion:

—Huntington Beach. A gala parade at 11 a.m., from 10th and Main streets with 18 marching bands and 32 decorated floats. At 9 p.m., there'll be a fireworks show on the Huntington Beach pier.

—Downey. Community fair from noon until midnight at Warren High School with fireworks show scheduled for 9 p.m.

—Anaheim. Huge fireworks spectacular in Anaheim Stadium immediately after the Angels finish their American League game with the Oakland Athletics. Game time is 6 p.m.

—Buena Park. "Operation Patriotism," scheduled for Knott's Berry Farm, will be a daylight event beginning at 10 a.m. A patriotic pageant will include costumed participants, and the berry farm's replica of the Liberty Bell will be tapped 13 times to commemorate the original 13 times and 56 more times to honor the 56 patriots who risked their lives by signing the Declaration of Independence. Ten scenes from America's history will be included in the pageant, to be narrated by actor Don DeFore.

—Pasadena. Tommy Walker's big Rose Bowl spectacular will pay special tribute to American servicemen missing in action in Southeast Asia and to Yanks held in Red POW camps. Families of servicemen will be honored guests for the program, which begins at 7 p.m.

—Los Angeles. The annual Fourth of July show in Memorial Coliseum gets underway at dusk with entertainment preceding the actual fireworks.

IN SOME AREAS, the Fourth will take an anti-war twist. At San Bernardino, a group of about 500 GIs from Norton Air Force Base will hold a "Peace Independence Day," with a picnic in a park. Police and councilmen who originally opposed a permit for the picnic, say it now has official blessings.

Not so fortunate was a float from the musical "Hair," which had been planned for the Fourth of July parade in Pacific Palisades. The float, which was designed as a salute to the U.N.'s World Youth Assembly, drew too many objections from local citizens, the sponsoring, Palisades Chamber of Commerce said.

Navy Destroyer Open House Starts Today

The destroyer USS Walke will be open to civilian visitors this weekend at Long Beach Naval Station.

The public can tour the ship from 1 to 4 p.m. today and Sunday at Pier 16, the Navy said.

Low-heeled shoes are suggested for women visitors.

CITIZENS' ADVISORY GROUP APPOINTED

Five citizens were chosen Friday to advise the Orange County Board of Supervisors on what the county should be doing to make its government more responsive.

Supervisors called it the Citizens' Direction Finding Commission, and said it would be funded with part-time secretarial help but that the commissioners would not be paid for their advice.

Personnel includes Dr. Louis Cella of Santa Ana, Jerry R. Ferreri of Garden Grove, Lloyd Reese of Brea, Rodger Howell of Tustin and James E. O'Connor of South Laguna.

2 BLACKS GET HELP, SUCCEED

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Percy Alexander, an employee of the California Federal Bank in Watts, will enter Hastings Law School of the University of California to do graduate work next September.

George Johnson, whose BA is in chemistry, began work with the Shell Oil Co. this summer.

What do Alexander and Johnson have in common? Both are black.

Neither had much chance of completing a college education when they graduated from high school.

Alexander and Johnson were able to earn their BAs with help from the Educational Opportunities Program for minority students at California State College at Dominguez Hills.

THEY ARE THE FIRST two graduates of the college's EOP.

The EOP recruits, selects and admits into college minority and low-income students who show potential for higher education but lack the normal college admissions criteria, says Dr. Robert Bersi, college spokesman.

Alexander began high school as an above-average student, but his father lost his job soon after, forcing his family to move into a low-income "project" area in Los Angeles.

ALEXANDER'S GRADES dropped due to association with other poor students, uninteresting classes and "a feeling of defeat," Dr. Bersi said.

After being discharged from the Army as a sergeant, Alexander entered school and began studying in earnest. He maintained a B-plus grade average at Dominguez Hills.

Johnson began his college work at Southern A&M College, but dropped out for financial reasons. While serving in the Army he decided to go back to school and become a research chemist. He graduated in June and landed his job with Shell Oil.

Parking Ban Hours Upheld

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

The hours when "no-parking" restrictions are in effect in Belmont Shore to permit street sweeping should remain at 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays, City Manager John R. Mansell said Friday.

A survey taken this year shows "no significant change" from one taken in 1966 when the sweeping district was formed, Mansell said.

The survey revealed that the use of parking spaces declined to about 50 per cent by 7:30 a.m., decreasing steadily to 45 per cent by 8 a.m., the manager said. After 8 a.m., the trend is reversed, reaching 50 per cent occupancy by 8:30 a.m. and 55 per cent by 9:30 a.m.

COUNCILMEN asked for the review of the time schedule at the request of Charles W. Wilder, 29 Ximeno Ave., who suggested that the time period be moved to later in the morning.

The Belmont Shore area was the first in the city where "no-parking" restrictions were imposed to permit city sweepers to clean the streets. The shore district covers the area bounded by Ocean Boulevard, Livingston Drive, The Toledo and Bay Shore Avenue.

Parking is prohibited on one side of streets in the area during the two-hour period on Mondays, and on the opposite side of the streets on Tuesdays.

MANSSELL SAID the area is covered by two sweepers, each sweeping about seven miles of streets. During winter and spring, the sweeping takes an average of one hour and 10 minutes, Mansell said. In summer and fall, the runs average about 10 to 15 minutes longer.

Although the actual sweeping time is less than the two-hour period of prohibited parking, Mansell said, this permits flexibility in the event of mechanical trouble or the need to empty the sweeper.

Two traffic officers escort each sweeper and write citations for any car parked illegally at the time it is passed by the sweeper.

MANSSELL said the average number of citations issued during the resurvey period this past March was 43 on each route. However, only one such citation was issued where parking was not available in the same block on the opposite side of the street, the city manager said.

In the area around Ximeno Avenue, with which Wilder was particularly concerned, 21 citations were issued on five days, but 35 parking spaces were available on the opposite side of the street, Mansell said.

"We do recognize and are sympathetic with those who received citations, and we realize no sweeping district can be made to operate successfully without inconvenience to some," Mansell said.

The city manager said he believes the present program is successful and the schedule offers the least inconvenience to motorists in the area.

Store Burglarized

Stereo, radio equipment and cash all worth $1,950 were taken from the Villa Decor Furniture Store, 1210 E. Pacific Coast Highway, by prowlers who broke a second story window to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.

FULLERTON PROF FACES 2ND TRIAL

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Dr. Stuart Silvers, already convicted of two counts stemming from a riot March 3 at California State College Fullerton, will stand trial Aug. 24 on two charges on which his first jury disagreed.

The charges — both of them misdemeanors — are refusal to disperse and interfering with the lawful business of the college.

Municipal Court Judge Kenneth Lae of Fullerton set the trial date after refusing a plea by Dr. Silvers that he represent himself at the trial.

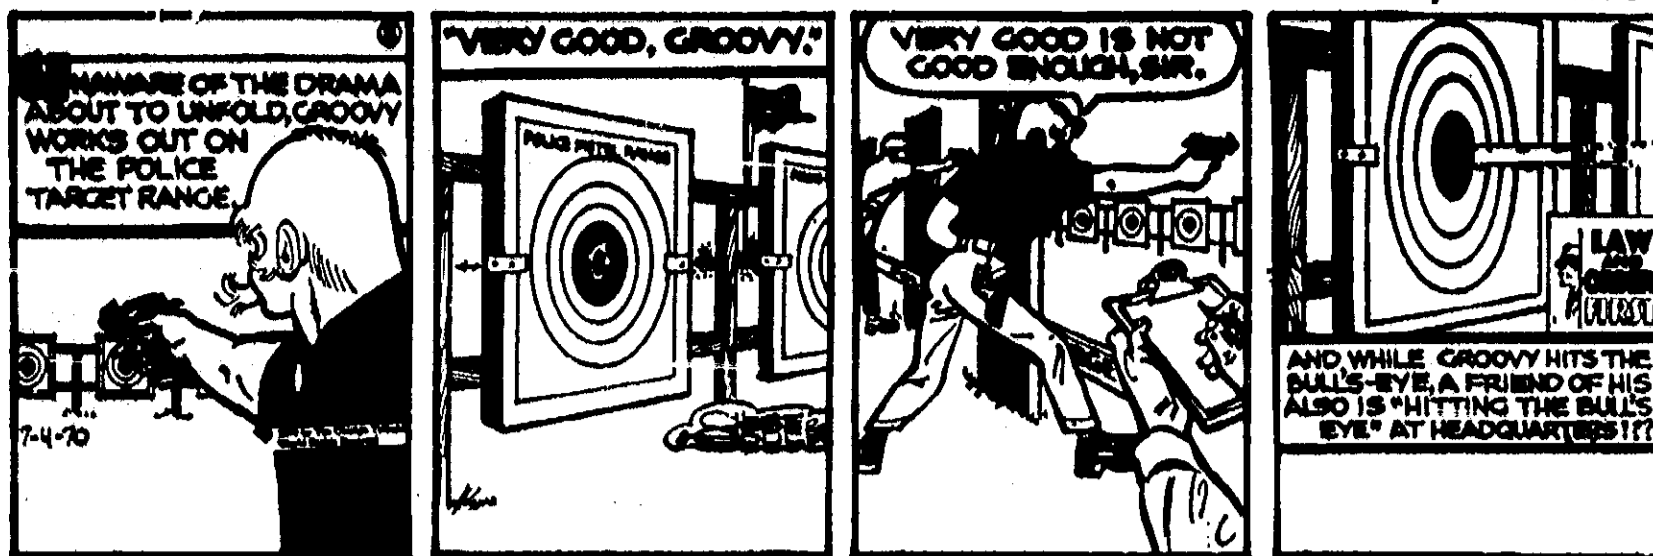

The court ordered Attorney William Goldstein to remain as counsel for the 33-year-old Dr. Silvers, who was a tenured associate professor of philosophy before he was discharged for "unauthorized absences."

Dr. Silvers was convicted of dual misdemeanor counts of unlawful assembly and disturbing the peace, in a jury trial before Fullerton Municipal Court Judge James Cook. He was sentenced to 60 days in the Orange County Jail, but is at liberty pending appeal.

Another former Cal State Fullerton faculty member, Cyril R. Epstein, 31, who was an assistant professor of English, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of failure to disperse and will be sentenced July 17. On that date, Judge Lae will decide whether to hold Epstein for trial on three other charges growing out of the March 3 riot.

GARDENING

AQUARIUS... AARS 1971 Winner

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Wise shoppers seek quality in the products they purchase. Gardeners, too, seek quality plants.

One of the plants that is a universal favorite of gardeners is the rose. No one need wonder whether he is getting a quality rose if he purchases All American Selections award winning rose! Those roses are a bargain at any price.

Such roses have run the gamut of intensive trials in 23 official test gardens of AARS scattered throughout the United States. They compete with many other outstanding rose hybrids of American and foreign origin. The winners are the "cream of the crop of the rose world" — the champs. All entrants in those test gardens are known only by number. In the rose trials they are scored in quality of the plant, quantity of the blooms and length of the flowering, disease resistance, hardiness, vigor, and many other important characteristics. They have to meet high standards.

THE THREE 1971 AARS winners that passed the two years of trial testing and received the most votes in their respective categories are... Aquarius a tall grandiflora with beautifully marked pink blooms; Command Performance a shapely plant with exquisite orange-red, fragrant blossoms; and Redgold a floribunda with brilliant chrome-yellow, hot-red flowers massed on low bushy plant.

You can see them in public parks rose gardens and at your local nursery. You'll help your roses if you top dress the bare soil area around them with a fine, organic, spread-mulch material to conserve the moisture and save on frequency of watering, because the bare soil dries quickly in hot weather.

Flower beds, shrubs and also trees mulched in this way benefit from the material. Oxalis... The small reddish-brown scale-like insects are not what they appear to be. They are the seeds of the yellow, small-flowered, clover-like, tough oxalis weed. The runner branches creep out in all directions, spread and infest a dichondra or a grass lawn. The central small tap root reminds one of a miniature carrot.

The small reddish-brown seeds burst from a seed pod scattering out as far as a six foot radius or maybe even more. They temporarily cling to whatever object on which they alight due to the sticky substance covering them. Those seeds finally drop when the sticky covering dissipates.

Should the seeds drop on soil that is not even watered, the night dew is sufficient to sprout them and they grow.

Home owners have sprayed camellias with an oil emulsion spray, thinking the seeds were scale. The seeds stuck to the underside of some of the camellia leaves.

We've found some sticking to a polished car's finish. And a neighbor mowing his lawn had some oxalis seed alight on his sweaty chest and cling.

It's no wonder oxalis wees are found growing almost anywhere, even in a shade garden.

There are several brand name herbicides to control this tenacious weed. Some gardeners are satisfied with the herbicide they use, others curse it. It is possible the unhappy gardeners aren't following the application directions on the particular oxalis control container they are using. The gardener may have missed the important factor of weather conditions.

GARDEN CLINIC

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. Enjoyed the tree azalea article. We have two growing in containers which are doing fine. They have bloomed profusely without care, except watering. Please give information about pruning azaleas. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. V.

A. Cut them back as far as you think they need to be pruned, or as little as needed. Just cut wherever you want. That's it. A half dozen new branches will appear just below the cut. Do it soon as you can. After one such treatment you should not prune again until next year after blooming. Should any long growths appear above the bush shape, just cut them back to shape. You should feed the azaleas an acid food or a liquid camellia-azalea food at monthly intervals.

Q. Our magnificent star pine tree about 18 years old had become infested with enclosed insect. Our nurseryman has been spraying the tree, but to no avail. The insects return and cover the tree. I'm concerned and need your help. Whom shall I call? What is your advice? S. S.

A. Perhaps you should ask that nurseryman to recommend a bona-fide spray man. Ask the spray man to inspect the tree and see if the insects are damaging the tree or just breeding in it. If it needs spraying, have him do it. Or take several of the insects in a glass jar or a plastic vial to Farm and Home Advisors Office, 808 N. Spring Street, Los Angeles. The phone number is 628-3383. Do not press the insects as you did those you sent me, for pressing makes them difficult to identify.

Local Lutheran Pastor in ACL Race; 'Hair' Hit

"He is conservative without being reactionary, obscurantist, or rigid; he is what our synod now needs."

Sounds like something from a piece of campaign literature? It is. The American Lutheran Church will elect a new president at its biennial convention in October, and for the first time has put in a system of grassroots nominations. Ten nominees have been officially selected as candidates to succeed the retiring Dr. Fredrick Schlotz. One of the 10 is Rev. Dr. Gerhard L. Belgum, pastor of St. Timothy Lutheran of Lakewood, from whose brochure the above quotation is taken.

The brochures, with picture and biographical data, are to be circulated throughout the 2.6-million member denomination's churches prior to the convention. Unsuccessful candidates for the six year presidency term will automatically become vice presidential candidates.

The local pastor brings formidable credentials to the election. Dr. Belgum, 54, a combat chaplain with the 35th Infantry for four years during World War II, was a teacher of Bible and philosophy for 13 years at Luther College, and left a legacy of empathy with young people. His doctorate was earned at Yale University and Divinity School. He has held leading posts in the denomination's Southwest district, and, perhaps more important, has worked extensively with the two other major Lutheran bodies, the LCA and Missouri Synod, having taught in the latter's Concordia Seminary, and directed an LCA mission in Madras, India at the Gurukul seminary. But he is much more than an "upper echelon" leader. He was successful founding pastor of two mission churches before taking over the Lakewood parish, which has grown in every way during his ministry.

Dr. and Mrs. Belgum are parents of five, including elder son Stephen, who while an infantry officer in Vietnam conceived and carried through, with the help of the home church, a program of practical aid to Viet orphans. Applied Christianity in the midst of a deadening brutality of a dubious war says something about one's home life, as well as about the person himself.

The pastors and laymen who put forth Dr. Belgum's candidacy (he neither began nor encouraged it) feel they have the right man. The pastor himself was restrained in his reaction to the nomination. "All I wish to say at this time," he said, "is that I am honored to be named one of ten. I have no idea at all about the possibilities of my being elected president or vice president. My only concern is that the Lord's will may be done, and that our American Lutheran Church may be strengthened in its witness to Christ and in its outreach."

Naturally, we'll be rooting for the local man, not only because he's a Lakewood pastor, but because in our contacts with him we, too, have been impressed by his evident breadth, caliber and outlook.

Team Is Here

DR. BELGUM Presidential Race

IN AN interesting article on the theater in the current "Christianity Today," D. Bruce Lockerbie, chairman of the English Department at Stony Brook School, N.Y., hits the touted musical "Hair" on more substantial grounds than do the usual critics.

He speaks of the repeated gesturing, imitations of intercourse, et al, as being "manifestly isolated, alienated, cut off from any possible experience of joy" — in brief, a perversion of the play, these are indeed the grounds on which to analyze it, not the brief moment of nudity. Does the play really celebrate life — or juvenile, self-conscious auto-eroticism?

GREAT LINE quoted by Gordon Cohn in the Jewish Federation News: "Behind all the false tinsel of Hollywood lies the real tinsel."

H. EDWARD ROWE, president of Christian Freedom Foundation, and editor of the monthly Christian Economics, is inaugurating a "Living Issues" broadcast July 12th, Sunday nights at 11 p.m. over KFI. This powerful station's nighttime signal reaches across most of the country. Art Linkletter will be interviewed on drugs in the first program. Linkletter believes Christian faith has a vital role to play in helping people overcome drug use.

Item: July, 1776, Philadelphia. The Continental Congress is debating a "Declaration of Independence" drafted by Thomas Jefferson. Slight changes are made, and the voting begins. John Hancock leads off with his bold signature, saying he wants George III to be able to read it without his "specs." Charles Carroll, fearful someone will mistake him for another with the same name, signs, "Charles Carroll of Carrollton." Benjamin Franklin remarks, "We shall all have to hang together, or we shall hang separately."

Caesar Rodney, ill, with one side of his face covered with a silk cloth to hide the disfigurement caused by a malignant disease, rides all night and all day from Dover, Delaware, arriving in time to stride, booted and spurred, into the assembly, and say, "I vote for independence."

The old bell ringer who has been told to start ringing as soon as the Declaration is adopted is pessimistic. "They'll never do it," he repeats again and again. Then suddenly a boy appears, running and shouting, "ring, ring, ring," and the event is history.

Item: "Soviet citizens from the Baltic to Kamchatka voted Sunday... all Communist backed candidates to the Supreme Soviet, the nation's rubber-stamp parliament, are assured of election... they have no opponents... Muscovites obediently followed orders."

Item: Thank God for America by attending church tomorrow. We invite you to worship with us.

Sincerely,
Frank M. Kepner, Pastor

Church's 'Camp' for Neighborhood Kids Fills Need

By LES RODNEY

They figured this way: Their church, First Congregational, 18 located in a community, "downtown" though it may be called. With school out, a lot of kids living within walking distance of the sanctuary at Third and Cedar are at loose ends. Though nobody's starving to death, it's not a very high economic bracket area. In many cases, both parents are working.

"We saw the need, and nobody else was filling it," explained Churchwoman Mrs. Dorothy Baker. She proposed a summer camp, with free hot lunches, to the Lay Life and Work Committee. After some debate, including some over the fact that this would not be a Bible school, but a simple exercise in applied Christianity, the idea was approved. (Actually, the program has resulted, with no pressure whatsoever, in several enrollments in Sunday School.)

Handbills were distributed up and down the neighborhood streets. Children, ages 6-16, are welcome. The registration fee is a nominal $1, and that's all. On Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., through July 31st, the boys and girls enjoy well supervised arts and crafts, stories, fun and educational trips, meal and refreshments. There are already more than 70 kids in the program, and the number is growing through word of mouth.

Only one "full time" church staff member works with the program. He is Steve Rafferty, 24, recently back from his stint with the Marines in Vietnam, and slated to do youth work for the church in the fall while he goes back to college.

Forty five young people of the church volunteered to help, in different shifts. A dozen students from the city's two colleges help out, including home economic majors getting some practical experience. "It's been great," Rafferty said. "The kids are enthusiastic."

With food mainly underwritten by a federal day camp program, a bus rented from the United Church of Christ Southland conference is the largest expense.

The Long Beach Police Department was nice enough to have a police helicopter land in the street near the church for the youngsters, followed by a "getting to know you" chat. There are trips to the Los Angeles Zoo, the observatory, museums, a Navy ship, this newspaper, and one scheduled at the Marine Corps Air Station, among many other activities.

On a given morning at the church, you will find some little ones busy making imaginative "cities" out of cardboard, paint and paper, others being told stories by big brother or sister volunteers, and holding "talk time," and in the kitchen, as lunch time nears, some of the youngsters themselves working on the preparation of the food.

Cal State volunteer Sue McKee, 19, a home economics major, said simply "They're great kids to work with." She will teach sewing, when six sewing machines are unpacked and set up in one of the church's myriad upstairs rooms.

Another Cal State student volunteer worker is somewhat older than Sue, but no less enthusiastic.

Mrs. Noreen Charon, mother of five, is working for her masters degree in nutrition.

A "family night" is held on Wednesdays, to bring the parents together with the children and staff.

"We hope to figure out some way to keep this going perhaps in the fall," Mrs. Baker said. "At least some aspects of it."

MRS. WEDEL ANALYZES FEELINGS OF UNREST

Council Head Tells Orthodox Meet Belief Conquers Fears

Mrs. Theodore (Cynthia) Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches, characterized questions on the minds of many Christians this week when she addressed a luncheon of the 20th Biennial Congress of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America in New York.

Mrs. Wedell, an Episcopalian, told the assemblage of over 1000 in her "Challenge to Church Men and Women in a World of Change" that older generations led settled lives and their beliefs were firm. But today, it is harder, especially for those who remember the happier "good old days" to feel secure in a rapidly changing world, with which we were not always identified.

As a result, she said, we are "scared" of everything new, the knowledge of which comes to us instantly, and we see threats to our stability in every manifestation of the revolts around us: the uprisings of the oppressed, the demonstrations of youth against authority, the demands of the blacks, and the dissatisfaction of millions of down-trodden people in the underdeveloped areas of the world, who have begun to learn how much better other people live than themselves.

But the young, she added, never having known the "separateness" of earlier generations, and having always lived in this "electronic age" are quicker to express their anger and frustration against war, poverty and injustices, since they identify better with all human beings, and because they have been brought up to believe that our superior technocracies could wipe out hunger, disease, suffering and human indignities.

What, asks Mrs. Wedel, does all this mean to a Christian? Can our faith make a difference in our understanding of the changes in our time? She optimistically believes that it can make "all the difference in the world." Asking the further question: "What is the absolute basic fact of our Christian Faith?" — she answers it by saying that "it is our truly believing in God, the mighty Creator and Ruler of the universe, Who is revealed in the Old Testament to His chosen people of Israel, and supremely revealed in our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, the Almighty God in human form Who lived among us, sharing our life and sacrificing Himself for our ultimate salvation."

Mrs. Wedel said that she still meets Church people who act as though they believe the rumor "prevalent a few years ago" that God is dead.

But Mrs. Wedel believes that these upheavals play a destined role in God's design for man on this earth, offering him a challenge that Christians, in accordance with Our Saviour's compassion and mercy entrusted to His followers as His Legacy, have a particular duty to meet and overcome.

And the Orthodox, she said, with their spiritual transcendence, with the power and beauty of their worship, with their belief in the miraculous, with their deep understanding of human suffering, can do much through the practice of their traditional beliefs and tenets to convince Christians of all Churches that the Holy Spirit is amazingly active in our time — a time which Mrs. Wedel believes to be a "glorious" one for Christian opportunity.

FROM THE PULPIT

The men who have moved the world have always been the men whom the world could not move. It is always encouraging to hear men state their convictions when the tide of public opinion would pressure them to "go along" with programs.

Ministers are being pressured to "go along" with movements designed to destroy the foundations of Christianity. That these foundations cannot be destroyed is not the issue. We do not "defend the faith" because we think that Modernism can destroy it. We defend it because we love it.

It is disgusting to hear religious groups defend the teachings of Modernism and infidelity in our seminaries and colleges with the explanation that they are not afraid that the Word and work of God will not stand under such attacks.

As for us, we will not pay their programs to teach error and then try to defend such practices with such sick excuses and disguises. We believe that the Bible is the inspired Word of God and will pay no man to teach who does not believe thusly.

We do not belong to the National Council of Churches. We do not support any program that does support the NCC, and we are not affiliated with any religious organization that supports it.

If we love the Word of God we will have nothing to do with those who do not believe it. If we love the Lord Jesus Christ we will have no fellowship with those who deny that He is God. It is as simple as that. We do not gear our church program for scoffers — but for believers!

Come to Calvary. Calvary is for you!

Stand Up to Your Fears—They Fade

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

We live in an age of fear. The front page of any newspaper, because papers have to tell it like it is, reads like a list of fear reminders, things to worry about just in case we cannot think up enough for ourselves.

What is the antidote to this fear psychosis? It can be demonstrated because it has been proven time without number, that if you get a heart full of God you will no longer have a mind full of fear. And that is because faith and fear cannot occupy the same space at the same time. Faith is always stronger than fear. It is the only mental attitude that is. So if you are afraid of anything, the future, your health, your well-being, the world, just get your mind as full of God as you can and those fears will fade.

NEVER BE pushed around by your fears. I was reading recently the interesting recollections of an old man about his early life out West in the primitive days. A telegraph operator in a lonely mountain railroad station, he was assigned to work from 7 in the evening until 7 in the morning. The first night he was dropped off at the isolated station from a freight train. And there he was all by himself. The freight train rumbled on down the valley, its whistle fading in the distance, and then there was silence—deep silence.

The realization that he was miles from anybody struck him with nervous apprehension. He went into the office and turned on all the lights, shut the door and locked it. Nervously he pulled down all the shades, barricading himself inside that station for the night afraid of the darkness and loneliness that surrounded him.

During the night he could hear all sorts of sounds from around the station. He was filled with terror, visualizing wild animals and maybe bandits. He could hardly wait for the dawn to come and with it the bright light of morning. "I'll never last at this job," he said. But he stuck to it even though every night the fear seemed to get worse.

Finally one morning, when his relief man came on duty, he said, to him, "Look Bill, I can't take this job. This darkness scares the life out of me."

Bill said to him, "The trouble with you is that you don't know the dark. You haven't bothered to get acquainted with it. Try it one more night and this time try to get to know the darkness. Face the night. It's your friend, not your enemy."

He did just that and the next night, frightened as he was, he left the door wide open and the windows too, with the shades up. He got the scent and the aroma of the night. He stood outside and looked up at the canopy of stars. The moon shone down in silvery radiance. Later he stated that it was the greatest experience of his boyhood days. He had learned to face the night and stand up to his fears. Facing the darkness, he had destroyed the dread it held for him.

NEW MINISTER AT LOS ALTOS

Rev. Harold Cowart this week began his duties as associate minister of Los Altos United Methodist Church. He replaces Rev. Richard Knowles, who was assigned by Bishop Kennedy as chaplain-on-staff at Memorial Hospital. Graduate of the University of Georgia, and honor graduate of Candler School of Theology of Emory University, Atlanta, Rev. Cowart comes to Long Beach from four years as associate pastor of the 1,700-member Porterfield Memorial Church of Albany, Ga. He has had wide experience in radio, YMCA and musical work.

SO WE MUST all stand up to our fears. And you can do this when you have faith deeply imbedded in your mind because faith is more powerful than any and all fear.

DAKOTA BISHOP TELLS OF TRIP

Honors God and Country But Can't Honor Viet War

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

"Whatever else we're fighting for in Vietnam, we're not fighting for the freedom of the Vietnamese people. They are not free."

A campus radical speaking? No, a Methodist bishop. And he's not one of those way-out clerics who'll say anything to be considered "relevant." He's a soft-spoken patriot from the Midwest farm belt who doesn't think it's corny to link "God and country"—provided you put God first.

His name is James Armstrong. At the age of 45, he is bishop of the Dakotas in the United Methodist Church. In another time, his concern might be focused on parcelling out pastorships or meeting budgets. But Bishop Armstrong has had an experience he can't forget.

LAST YEAR, along with several other U.S. churchmen, he visited Vietnam to see for himself what his country was doing there. He was appalled by what he learned—or perhaps he learned, for who can know for sure what is the truth about that confused and controversial situation?

Bishop Armstrong has made a report on his findings to some of his fellow churchmen, and he expanded on it in an interview. Here are some of the things that trouble his conscience, as a Christian American, about what's going on in Vietnam:

"The Saigon government is run by a band of generals who need to keep the war going in order to stay in power. They do not represent a majority of the non-communists in South Vietnam. General Thieu and General Ky won the 1967 'free election' because their most popular opponents weren't permitted to run against them. The one candidate who did give them a race was imprisoned as soon as the election was over—and is still in jail.

"And he's only one of thousands of non-communist political prisoners who've been jailed by the Thieu-Ky regime. This is the kind of 'freedom' we're defending in Vietnam."

EVEN IF he could be certain that the Vietnamese people are better off under the "police state corruption" of Saigon than they would be if left to the mercies of Hanoi's "Communist terrorism," the bishop said, he would still have grave doubts about the morality of America's role.

Traditional Christian doctrine holds that war is morally justified only when it is clearly necessary to avert an even greater evil. And Armstrong finds it difficult to imagine any greater evil than is now being inflicted on the South Vietnamese.

"The truth is that our overwhelming fire-power is simply destroying these people and their land," he said, and as he said it, he shuddered visibly at some of his memories.

"The people have been uprooted, torn from their land. Millions of refugees glut the cities. Each year, about a quarter of a million civilians are killed or wounded by misdirected fire from our troops or Communist troops."

Armstrong is haunted by a conversation he had with a Buddhist monk in South Vietnam. He asked, "what can we do to help your people?" The monk replied:

"The thing we need most is to be saved from your salvation."

NIXON, REAGAN HAIL L.B. CHURCH'S PATRIOTIC RALLY

Bethany Baptist Church, 2250 Clark Ave., held a highly successful Community Patriotic Rally Wednesday, and was proud to receive a telegram from President Nixon, saying "Nothing could be more heartening than the knowledge of your support . . ." and a personal letter by Gov. Reagan to the pastor, Rev. Dr. William J. Melhenny.

The governor wrote, in part: "I am always heartened to hear of this state's churches which teach that love of God and love of country go hand in hand. Please accept my appreciation for the inter-community patriotic rally by Bethany Baptist Church . . ."

Seville-Living Serene

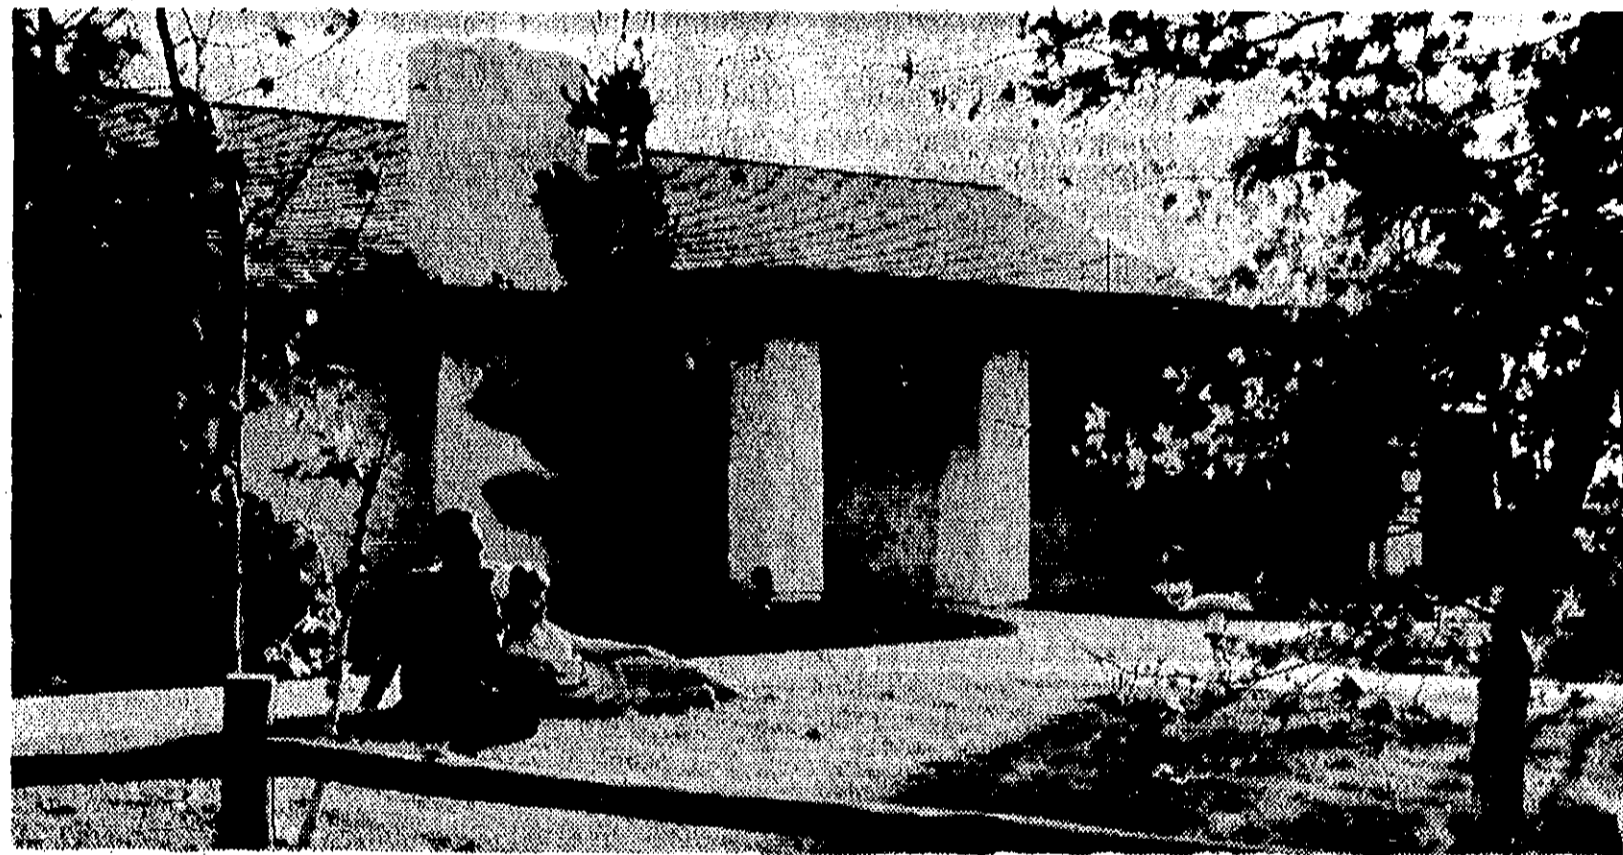

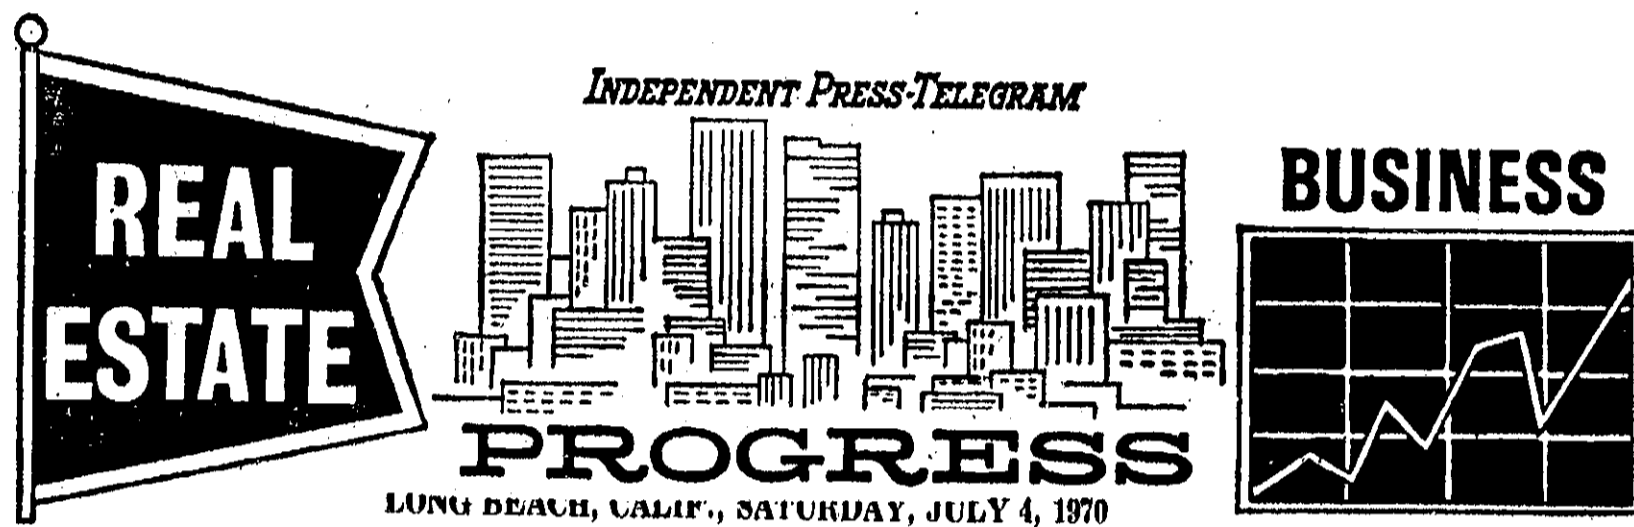

MISSION VIEJO'S PATIO-GARDEN homes are in debut at picturesque $16 million, 600-unit Seville Homes area, framed by spectacular foothill setting of rolling slopes at 600-foot elevation. Community covers 11,000 acres, of Trabuco Road and Los Alisos Boulevard. Portions of the neighborhood will overlook Santa Ana and Sheep Hill Mountains. Other sections will be adjacent to proposed wilderness park.

SPACIOUS SEVILLE living room is view-oriented. Indoor-outdoor effect is achieved by use of multiple walls of sliding glass. Homes are planned either on zero-side-lot, or traditional central positioning.

TRANQUIL ATMOSPHERE is important part of Seville living. Kitchen, family room, dining room, living room, master bedroom, second bedroom and kitchen all front on patio-garden areas. Says Dave Maddocks, general sales manager for Mission Viejo Company: "We have achieved a sense of variety seldom seen in merchant-built neighborhoods."

UNIQUE SHALLOW PLANTING IN H.B.

Asphalt Parking Lot Becomes Green Belt

Special to Progress Section
A revolutionary concept in park design and construction is getting its first U.S. trial in Huntington Beach.

Richard Bigler, a Laguna Beach landscape architect, and Moulder Bros., Glendale landscape contractor, are developing what amounts to a giant potted plant over three acres of asphalt pavement. Without expense of digging it up, ugly blacktop will be converted into rolling park land dotted with trees, green lawn, picturesque ivy and curving, colored coded walkways.

The site is Huntington Beach's John H. Eader Elementary School, where an unused blacktop playground had long been a community eyesore. Huntington Beach school district officials had been chary of ripping out the blacktop.

ONE REASON was that the expense would be as high as that of installing it. Another was that the soil at the school's 9291 Banning Ave. location, a quarter-mile from the Pacific Ocean, had too much salt content for suitable plant growth.

Bigler, who had been perfecting the potted plant theory for six years, learned of the Huntington Beach dilemma and saw an opportunity to test his ideas.

His proposal to make the problem area both scenic and useful was quickly accepted.

THE BLACKTOP is being turned into a park at the moderate cost of $90,000. On completion around Sept. 1 it will contain two tree-lined picnic areas and a turf play area and sand play area for children.

According to Bigler and John Moulder, president of Moulder Bros., construction is being accomplished in this manner:

Gravel has been spread over the blacktop first to facilitate proper drainage.

With the help of a perforated drain pump, water will wend its way through the gravel to an existing drainage system.

Then a series of raised planters is being installed, with soil molded from two to six feet to create eye pleasing rolling land. Specially mixed soil for the project will contain mushroom compost, redwood sawdust, ammonia sulphate and Kemp sand.

PLANTING of 103 well grown trees will be unique in that plastic bags will cover their root balls. The bags are designed to keep the roots in and alive until they adjust to the unusual transplant.

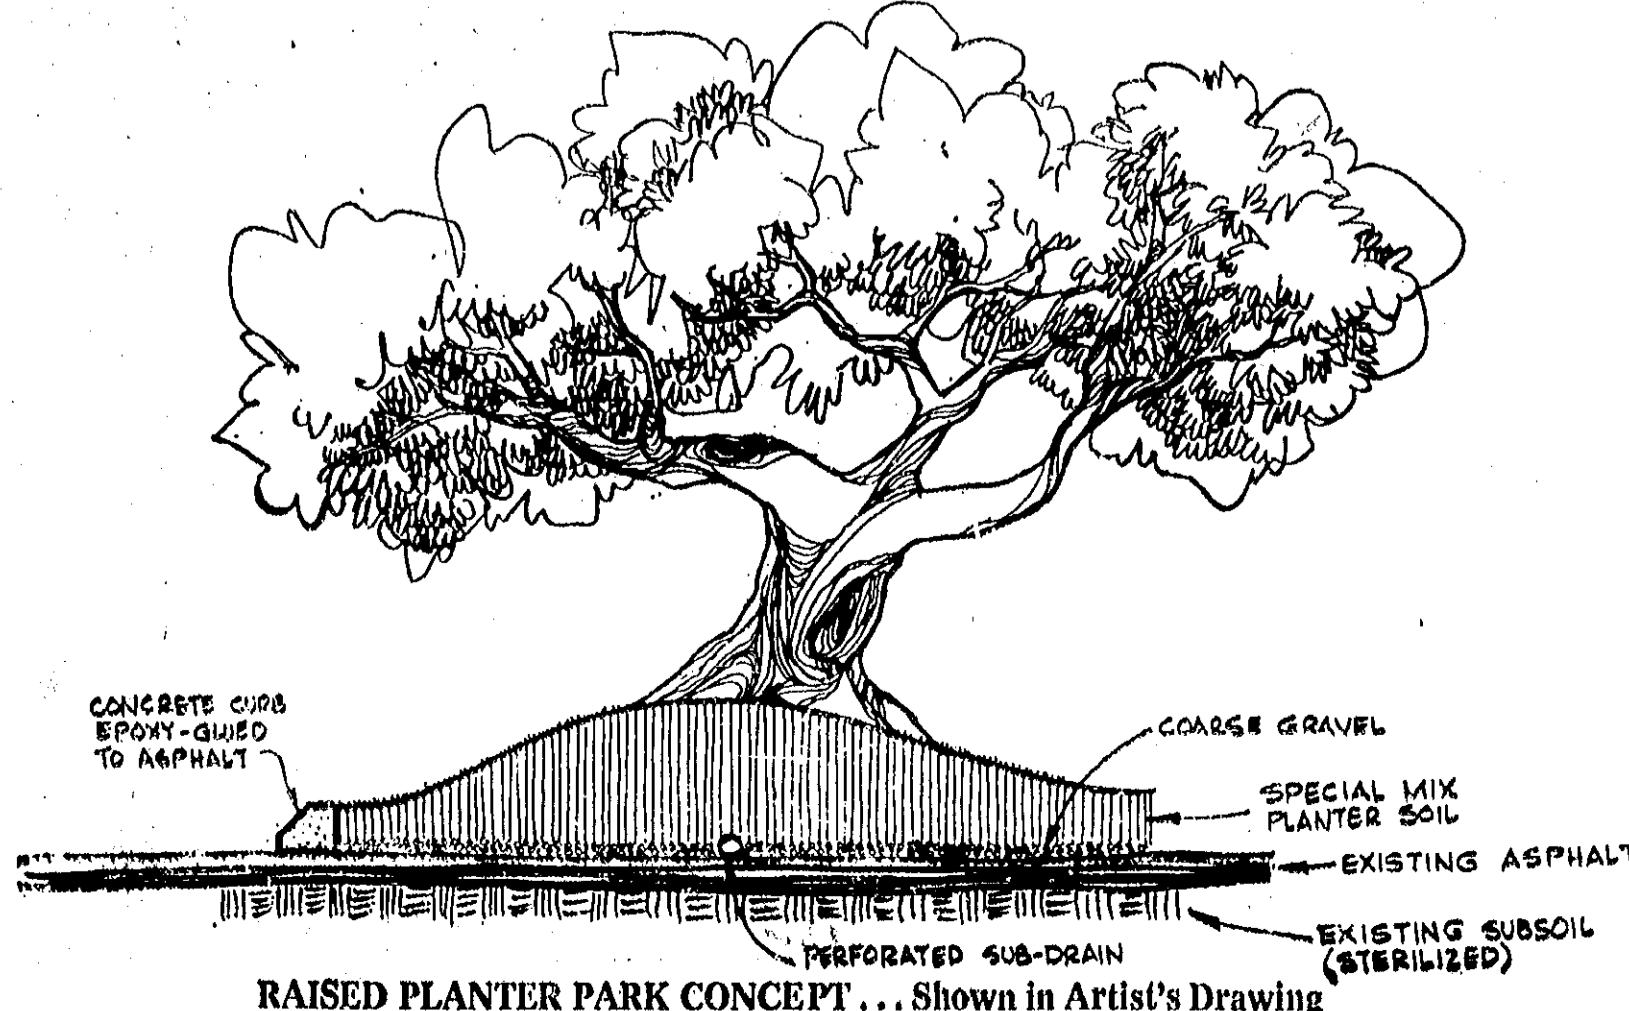

The roots later will punch holes in their plastic cover and instinctively search out soil to form a shallow root system.

Bigler, who heads Richard Bigler Associates, thinks the potted plant concept has an excellent future in the development of mini-parks within large parking lots.

He already had a contract for a venture like this with Kings County, Calif.

Also, he says, there are many expanses of unused pavement where it will be cheaper to develop a park-like environment over it than to tear it out.

He adds that the concept equally fits all land where there is a question of usability.

California Home Series in Double Opening

A Presley Development Co. double-header unit opening is in progress this weekend with homes in the fifth unit of the California Homes series in Cerritos and the second unit of the California Homes series in the central Irvine area now available for purchase.

The publicly held homebuilding company reports that despite recent labor and material rate raises the price line has been held in both communities. Prices in the Cerritos series stay at $22,500.

According to Executive Vice President Robert Phillips, one of the most popular plans in the Cerritos series is the 103.

"The design provides for full, completely private use of the lot and home," said Phillips. "Thoughtful indoor zoning separates the formal living area and family area to insure privacy for adult and junior activities.

"The plan also assures complete privacy outdoors for family members, through full use of the traditional sideyards. A sliding wall of glass from the adult living area leads to one sideyard, providing a perfect spot for barbecues, sunbathing, or just enjoying the cool evening breezes.

"Separate access from the children's area leads to the other sideyard, with space for jungle gyms and swing sets — a true play yard. The future pool and patio site at the rear completes the full recreational picture."

PRESLEY DEVELOPMENT COMPANY has kept the quality of the homes high, even while maintaining prices in the lower range, Phillips believes. This quality includes many custom features. In the 103, the large living room boasts a high vaulted ceiling, and wall after wall of glass.

The garden-style kitchen has built-in appliances, including a dishwasher. All the counters are ceramic tile-topped. There is a large sliding glass access opening to an outdoor service shelf.

Baths in the 103 have ceramic tile, spacious decorator vanities and large decorator mirrors.

The master suite, which is designed to accommodate king-size furnishings, has a dressing area with huge wardrobes, and a private bath.

Rollins-TER Opens New L. B. Area Complex

Rollins-TER, Inc., of Portland, has opened its 11th branch operation, it is announced by James O. Nelson, president.

Newest in the company's chain is a $300,000 complex at Long Beach. The facility includes offices and a fully-equipped maintenance shop that features two drive-through bays, one with a service pit.

The company specializes in full-maintenance truck fleet leasing and short term rentals of a variety of trucks.

Located on a 73,000-square-foot site in the Dominguez area, the Long Beach facility offers spacious parking for customers as well as the branch's rental fleet of more than 40 pickup trucks, panels, vans, flatbeds and gas and diesel tractors.

NELSON ALSO ANNOUNCED the appointment of Robert G. Colley as branch manager of the new facility.

Colley has been with Rollins-TER since September, 1969, and prior to that he was in management, lease sales and operations for another national transportation leasing firm.

He is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky State University and did graduate work at Louisiana State University in New Orleans.

Nelson noted the new Long Beach branch is the company's third in the Southern California area. Others are situated at Anaheim and Montebello. A fourth California branch is located at San Leandro to serve the Bay region.

ROLLINS-TER ALSO maintains branches at Portland and Toledo, Ore.; Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, Phoenix and Omaha.

Nelson said construction of the Long Beach facility "implements our expansion program and reflects our confidence in the future of the growing Southern California region."

Rollins-TER is a subsidiary of Rollins International, Inc., of Wilmington, Del., which is engaged in a variety of corporate services, including establishment of a nationwide truck rental and maintenance leasing system through Rollins-TER and a sister subsidiary, Rollins-Coile, Inc., of Atlanta, Ga., which serves a wide area of the East Coast.

Pre-fabricated Homes May Be Erected by Laymen

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business Real Estate Editor

"It won't be long before many Americans are erecting factory-built room additions and even their entire homes," predicts Al Haskin, secretary-treasurer of Hasko Builders, Inc., Southern California's largest producer of pre-fabricated room additions.

Speaking before a special residential builders meeting conducted by the Southern California Edison Co., Haskin said the quality of today's modular construction is changing the whole approach to residential construction and living patterns.

Alluding to his firm's recent involvement with major chain stores, such as Montgomery Ward and Fedco, for the mass merchandising of the Hasko modular room, Haskin said prefabricated rooms and homes have unlimited potential in reaching the masses because "they go together exactly like an erector set."

"You don't need a tremendous amount of technical knowledge to build a pre-fabricated, modular structure.

This procedure is becoming particularly valuable for builders operating in outlying areas where the labor pool is weak. It is easy to quickly teach people how to put together a pre-fabricated room or house.

"Upshot of this whole trend is that in some areas of the country, such as the Midwest and North, where there is virtually no ready access to labor, people will be putting these rooms up themselves as cabins, mountain chalets, beach homes, and additions to their own homes," Haskin explained.

To meet such demands, Haskin revealed that his firm already has plans to ship its components — built in three Southland factories — all over the country with a table of contents and sheet of instructions telling buyers where each structure section goes.

Haskin reported that pre-fabricated structures have already been put together on Indian reservations by Indians with wall sections just like those used by Hasko Builders.

In Escondido, model homes have been built using these panels.

Favorable Third?

The Western Business Forecast panel of businessmen predict a favorable third quarter for the economy of western United States, according to the latest survey taken by the Prudential Insurance Company.

Fifty-eight per cent of the panel members surveyed throughout the West, look for an increase in their "dollar volume" over the second quarter of 1970, while 16 per cent predict no change.

Twenty-six per cent foresee a decline in business from the previous three month period of this year.

The businessmen surveyed registered about the same degree of enthusiasm when comparing the third quarter to the same period of 1969.

Fifty-eight per cent expect an increase in their economic activity; 15 per cent predict no change; while 27 per cent anticipate a drop in volume when compared to the third quarter of last year.

Of the five western geographic areas, the Southern California-Arizona-Nevada region was most optimistic when comparing the coming quarter to a year ago.

More than three-fourths of the participants predict that their business activity for the third quarter of 1970 will equal or exceed that of the same period of 1969.

Among the industry groupings polled by Prudential, transportation and public utilities continues to be the most optimistic, with 92 per cent of the panel members expecting their economic activity for the third quarter of 1970 to equal or exceed that of the third quarter of 1969. Service was the only industry to show a decline in optimism.

Ham & Eggs—Up

Advancing for the second week in a row, Dun & Bradstreet's Wholesale Food Price Index reached $7.27 on June 23, the highest point in eight weeks. The index also exceeded the preceding week's $7.25 by 0.3 per cent and was 1.4 per cent larger than the $7.17 on the corresponding day last year.

Leading the advance were appreciable upturns in the wholesale costs of hams and eggs as well as slimmer gains in the quotations on wheat, beef, coffee and steers. Opposing these strengthenings were downturns in the prices of rye, oats, bellies, cocoa, hogs and lambs.

The Dun & Bradstreet Wholesale Food Price Index represents the sum total of the price per pound of 31 raw foodstuffs and meat in general use. It is not a cost of living index. Its chief function is to show the general trend of food prices at the wholesale level.

Sweet Profits

Consumers Union has its dander up this month over the cost of one prescription drug.

CU sent its investigators out in New York and found the same prescription cost ranged from 79 cents to $7.45.

The prescription called for tetracycline (a popular antibiotic) and, CU says, 47 of 60 druggists filled the prescription with generic tetracycline instead of a brand name.

"There's nothing wrong with that, except their profit AVERAGED 1,000 per cent," CU says.

The nonprofit organization declares generic tetracycline is available for as little as 1.3 cents per capsule (39 cents for the 30-capsule prescription).

"Yet, we paid up to $7.45 for a prescription filled with generic tetracycline," CU reports. "Thus . . . the pharmacist who filled the prescription generically, at a big saving to himself, did not pass along the saving to the customer."

The Phone Rings

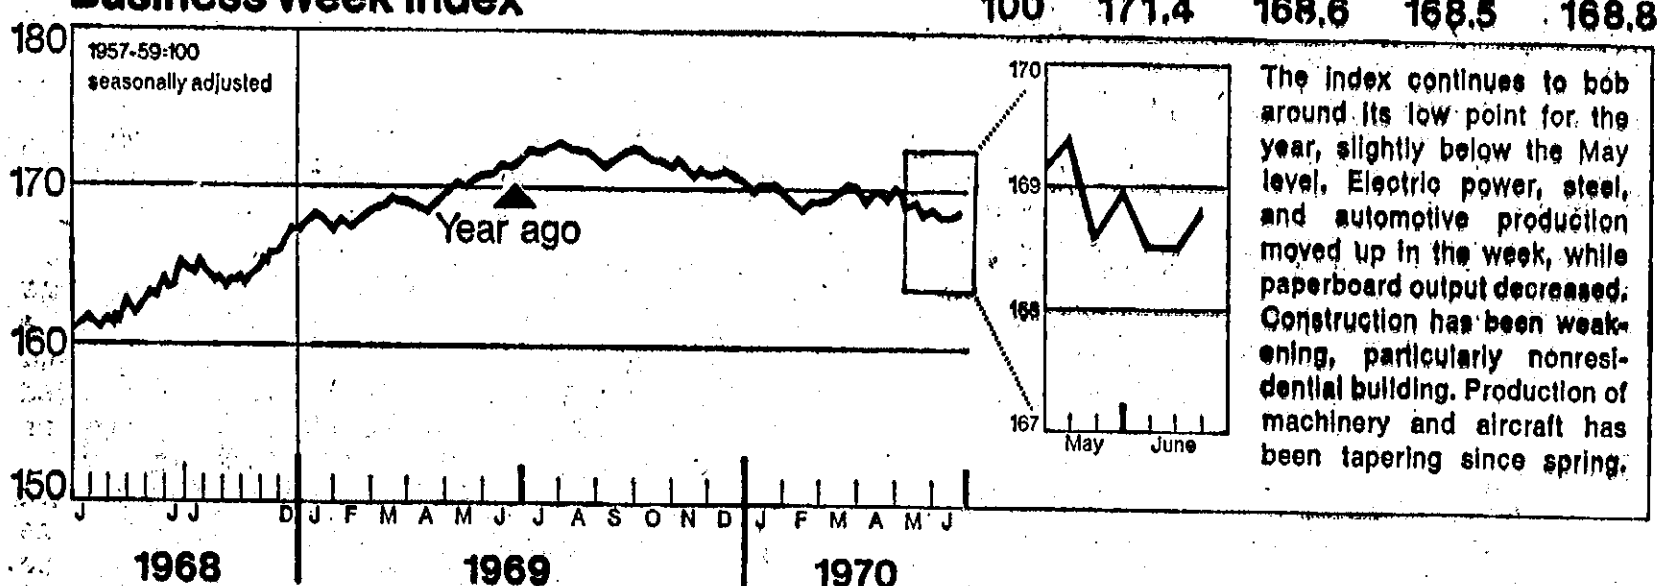

New foreign-made vehicles are supposedly available on non-dealer lots, but callers to the business desk tell a different tale: the vehicles are not new and, although a new car guarantee is promised during the sales pitch, none ever is produced.

What's more the vehicles often do not have English markings on the dash and, upon checking closer, are not new vehicles after all.

Beware of garages that work closely with insurance companies and surprisingly take on repair of wrecked vehicles at comparatively low bid, another caller complains.

One trick in the scheme: they sandwich work on your crumpled car between better-paying jobs, regardless of passage of time. One caller drove an oil-burning, oil-dripping loaner for three months awaiting repairs to his new model car.

Business Week index

Week's Index Makes Feeble Gain

The Index made a feeble gain in the current week, with small gains made in steel and auto output.

Auto production nudged 2.2 per cent ahead in the current week. The increase was attributed to both increased car sales, and an attempt to bolster inventory in face of a possible September strike.

Steel output also moved 2.2 per cent ahead.

Crude oil refinery runs slowed down 2.3 per cent in the current week. For the third consecutive month, the Texas Railroad Commission lowered the state's crude oil output rate, a decision resulting from unusually high inventory, and decreasing demand. Output may also be hurt by the increased oil import quotas fixed by President Nixon.

Electric power output gained 3.8 per cent. Surface transportation components registered gains in the current week. Miscellaneous carloadings went up 4.8 per cent; all other carloadings jumped 8.1 per cent, and intercity truck tonnage inched ahead 0.5 per cent. Paperboard production dropped 2.5 per cent.

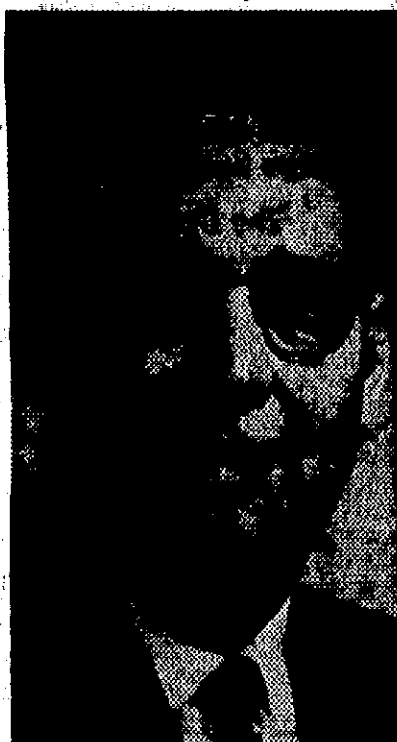

Kirkpatrick to Head DLBA

Sherman Kirkpatrick, manager of Walker's Department Store, has become the 24th president of Downtown Long Beach Associates, an organization of downtown businesses, founded in 1934 and now numbering over 1,250 members.

Otto Harb, manager of Sears, was elected vice president; Wayne Christenson, manager of Penney's, secretary, and Jerry Quinlan, vice president and manager of the Bank of California, treasurer.

Kirkpatrick accepted the presidency with these remarks:

"This is the year of the Queen Mary when things must be done in a bigger and better way. Our downtown needs specialized treatment — specialized concentrated attention. Pride in a city is expressed by the people through their treatment of the central city. Downtown tells the world far more about your people than you ever realize so we must give it the full and careful consideration it truly deserves."

KIRKPATRICK also said DLBA has resolved or is resolving problems which not only affect Downtown but the city as a whole.

"In 1968, DLBA members disagreed among themselves, as did the public, as to whether the Pacific Coast Freeway, as it passes the northern part of downtown should be elevated or depressed.

"The problem was solved when DLBA employed engineering experts who concluded that either a depressed or an elevated freeway would not effect the economics of downtown. The mounting storm quickly blew over.

"In 1967, DLBA members disagreed among themselves as to whether redevelopment of downtown should be accomplished immediately or later. The problem was resolved when DLBA employed Victor Gruen and Associates to produce a 'Reconnaissance Survey.'

"Result was the city's $165,000 Victor Gruen Survey and the City Council's recent approval of a Downtown 'General Plan.'"

ELECTED board members are Llewellyn Bixby IV, Ed Killingsworth, Rick Carter, Sam Cameron, Dwight Jenkins, Robert Shaffer, Murray Levin, Henry Powell, Helen Crehan, Valle G. Young, Hal Lewis, Bob Matheny, Don Phillips, Leo Shultz and George Hanawalt.

Kirkpatrick appointed these board members to a one-year term: Larry Collins Sr., Harold Beach, Howard Conrad, Bill Johns, Roy Riggle, Joe Ward, Bill McGregor, George Safren, Ed Vilen-sky, Ken Wing, Perry Maxson, Barney Ridder, George Trammell and Gus Lueking.

BOTH MANAGEMENT, HELP

Stevens-Thuet Feted by Sears

Employees and management of Stevens-Thuet Company, manufacturers of industrial and residential aluminum doors in Long Beach since 1946, have been honored today by Sears, Roebuck and Company.

The ceremony, during a luncheon at the plant, was attended by executives of Sears, office and plant personnel of Stevens-Thuet Company and guests.

Jack O'Hare, of Sears' Pacific Coast buying office, presented Sears' Symbol of Excellence award.

It is one of 319 Sears is presenting this year to suppliers judged most outstanding among its 13,000 major merchandise sources.

The award reads, "Stevens-Thuet Company and recognition of the outstanding performance of its management and employees in manufacturing superior quality products for Sears during the past year."

O'HARE said Stevens-Thuet was selected for the Symbol of Excellence by a committee representing the company's retail stores, catalog operations, national service department, quality control section, and merchandise development and testing laboratory.

MRS. SMITH, O'HARE ... At Ceremony

The presentation was made to Florence O. Smith representing management.

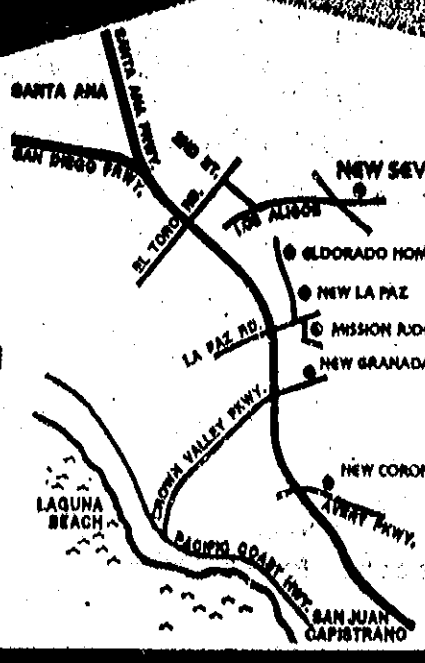

Mrs. Smith has been responsible for expediting Sears orders through the office for many years. The award presented to the employees was received by Gary J. Burnett on behalf of the men in the plant manufacturing Sears aluminum garage doors.

Harry Stevens, president of Stevens-Thuet Company, introduced the guests and received from O'Hare a copy of an 1897 Sears, Roebuck catalog.

A quick glance through its pages showed that times have indeed changed. A fine quality men's mohair suit was selling, in those days, for about $9.

Production of the Vega 2300 has begun at the ultra-modern Chevrolet-Fisher Body assembly plant at Lordstown, Ohio, and the first units are heading not for dealerships—but for schools.

John Z. DeLorean, Chevrolet general manager, announced the first 60 Vegas produced are being sent to the 30 General Motors Training Centers across the country to be used in training Chevrolet dealer technicians.

"Our research shows that efficient service and ready availability of replacement parts through our network of 6300 Chevrolet dealers will be a particularly attractive Vega feature to prospective economy car buyers," DeLorean said.

"Delays in service and replacement parts have been a disappointment to many foreign car buyers.

"We intend to have technicians skilled in Vega maintenance and an ample supply of spare parts in all dealerships by the time the first Vega is delivered to a customer in September."

Technicians will begin attending body and chassis schools conducted by Chevrolet and Fisher Body instructors as soon as vehicles are received at the Training Centers. Schooling will continue throughout the summer.

Vega production at Lordstown will be increased gradually to make sure each unit meets a high level of quality. Every car will be given a road test as a final check on the computer controlled inspection system in the plant.

Chevrolet's new little car will be offered in four models. It is named for Vega, one of the brightest stars visible from the earth. Chevrolet predicts it will "become the brightest star in the fast-growing small car world."

The "2300" refers to the 2300 cubic centimeters in its innovative lightweight, overhead cam engine. This engine was specifically designed and built in America to give a Vega a maximum blend of fuel economy, performance and low pollutant emission.

DRAMATIC GROWTH SEEN

L. J. Skaggs Philosophy Pays Off

When L. J. Skaggs opened one of the West's first self-service drug stores in 1932, he felt strong customer loyalty could be built on offering quality merchandise at lower prices.

Through the years that merchandising philosophy has brought about the phenomenal growth of California's Skaggs Pay Less Drug Stores, founded by L. J. Skaggs, chairman of the board.

The first Pay Less store opened in Tacoma with a staff of six and 6,000 sq. ft. for merchandising display. Weekly sales averaged $1,600.

Today, more than 1500 employees are part of the Pay Less success story, operating 27 giant Pay Less shopping complexes throughout California. Weekly sales now approach $2 million.

THE initial success of that first Pay Less store in Tacoma brought about rapid expansion during the early 1930s to other cities, including Seattle, Bremerton and Salt Lake City.

In 1937 Pay Less opened its first California center in Sacramento. Shortly after, the decision was made to continue further expansion only within the Golden State.

All out-of-state stores were sold and additional Northern California sites were selected for future Pay Less centers in Sacramento, Stockton, Pleasant Hills, Hayward and San Jose.

In 1939 company headquarters were moved to Oakland with the opening of the city's block-square Pay Less store at 19th and Telegraph Avenue.

Following completion in 1956 of the new multi-level Pay Less store at 18th and Telegraph Avenue, company headquarters relocated to Oakland's United California Bank building at 2030 Franklin Street.

President of the firm is William L. Ghera, a 26-year veteran of the Pay Less organization.

Last fall, Ghera announced company plans for construction of the new $1.5 million, 50,000-square-foot Pay Less headquarters building to be located in the Port of Oakland Industrial Park on Edgewater Drive.

The two-story building, set for completion during mid 1970, will house all general, administrative, and executive offices for Pay Less.

THE Skaggs Pay Less Drug Store chain, which became a public corporation in 1965 with the issue being traded over-the-counter, experienced its most dramatic growth during the past 10 years.

The number of Pay Less stores has quadrupled from seven to 28 since 1959, with sales climbing from $17 million annually to an estimated $100 million for 1969.

Last year brought new giant one-stop Pay Less Shopping Centers in Sacramento, Modesto and Lakeview, with a fourth store in Santa Barbara.

GROWTH figures for Pay Less during the first half of 1969 showed sales rose 25 per cent over the first six months of 1968. Net sales during the first half of 1969 were $44,799,471 compared to 1968 figures of $35,844,397.

The dramatic growth of Skaggs Pay Less Drug Stores will continue through the 1970s, according to company estimates. By 1975 the company expects to have 50 stores with an estimated gross sales volume of $200 million annually.

Glenaire Homes Designed to 'Grow With the Family'

A private garden court entry highlights the popular three-bedroom Westdale model at Glenaire, the $10 million Grant Company of California community in Cerritos where homes are designed to grow with the family.

The Westdale can be expanded in the future by adding a large family activity room that connects to the kitchen-dining area, said Mike Cunningham, project manager.

"While the family room will be added at the rear of the home, you will still have a spacious patio adjoining the kitchen," he said.

"The expansion room for the Westdale and all other models at Glenaire were taken into consideration when the original plans were drawn. Homes can be expanded easily without creating an added-on look."

EXPANSION plans are given to the buyers when they move in, he noted.

A high vaulted ceiling adds an exciting dimension to the Westdale's rear-oriented living room, while the master bedroom suite has a special dressing alcove and an enclosed

Bauer Homes' Family Kitchens Draw Praise

At Bauer Homes in Cerritos, kitchens will become "family centers" by design because families will gather there more often than any other room in the home products Pete Blair, vice president of marketing at Bauer Development Co.

"In describing our Family Center Kitchens, the ladies use complimentary expressions like 'beautiful and spacious' and 'that light, airy look with lots of glass,'" said Blair.

"They compliment us on the true family-center design that gives the housewife plenty of storage space in cupboards and pantries, a great deal of counter space, and a large eating area, plus space for informal family relaxation."

BLAIR also described the living room-kitchen relationship in Bauer Homes:

"The living rooms are designed for formal entertaining, yet, they are adjacent to the Family Center Kitchen, permitting one entire end of the home to become a party center for families that like to entertain."

Bauer Homes offer five different plans with two to four bedrooms. Most models include fireplaces with log lighters, carpeting, and self-cleaning ovens. All have front landscaping and sprinklers, complete rear yard fencing and carpeting and drapes.

They may be reached by taking the San Gabriel Freeway to South Street and driving east. Or, the Santa Ana Freeway may be taken to Orangefhorpe Avenue (which becomes South Street) and driving west.

Anderson Named L.B. Metro Area Chairman for NAB

Roy L. Anderson, a Douglas Aircraft Company executive and 30-year resident of Long Beach, has been appointed Long Beach Metropolitan Area chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB).

Anderson, assistant to the executive vice president at the Douglas division of the McDonnell Douglas Corporation, will have responsibility in the Long Beach area for Job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS), Summer Youth and other NAB programs.

In the NAB post he succeeds Dr. Richard D. De-

Lauer, executive vice president of TRW, Incorporated, acting Metro chairman.

A voluntary association of businessmen working with government agencies and labor organizations, NAB attempts to find jobs and obtain job training with private employers for the chronically unemployed and under-employed.

Since it was organized in 1968, the alliance has found jobs for more than 433,000 disadvantaged men and women, of whom at least 229,000 are still at work as a result of the program.

PRESIDENT Nixon, in a letter congratulating Anderson on his acceptance of the Long Beach chairmanship, said:

"Your willingness and the willingness of other businessmen to provide the leadership required to solve the problems of hard-core unemployment is the critical element for the success of the program. It is vitally important we work to alleviate the distress of people who are able to work if given an understanding opportunity, and I firmly believe that service in this critical effort is in our country's best interests."

"These contracts," he said, "were developed to help small businesses as well as large, and to reduce red tape to a minimum. A representative of the Department of Labor, working with NAB, will be available to help employers develop and submit their contract proposals under the revised program."

Anderson added that the JOBS program "offers an opportunity for private employers to help with a major national problem while training new workers for their future needs."

HE SAID he is confident that Long Beach businessmen "will continue to support this program, just as more than 25,000 others have throughout the country."

Anderson has been active in Long Beach community affairs since his graduation from the University of Southern California in 1940. He is serving as 1970-71 president of the 2500-member Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

A Rotarian, he also is a member of the executive board of the Long Beach Area Council, Boy Scouts of America; a member of the advisory board of the Salvation Army, a trustee of Long Beach Memorial Hospital and of St. Mary's Hospital and a member of the Newman Club.

Walker & Lee Lists 911 Homes in 30 Days

In what is believed to be a record performance, 300 Walker & Lee, Inc. real estate salesmen listed 911 homes for resale during a just-completed 30-day listing drive, it was announced by William H. McCabe, senior vice president of the Anaheim-based real estate firm.

"Since we have seldom listed more than 500 homes in a 30-day period," said McCabe, "we were reasonably certain that reaching our goal of 800 homes would be a world's record for 30 days. Now that we've exceeded that goal by over 100 homes, we really are certain that it's a record."

McCabe added that the Walker & Lee Resale Department, which he heads, is attempting to follow one record with another, its annual record sales week. He explained that each year, the resale staff goes all out during the last week of June to break its all-time one-week sales record.

The present resale record, set last June, is 181 homes.

McCabe noted that the listing drive introduced new Walker & Lee "For Sale" signs, which will henceforth be used on all homes listed for sale. Each unit consists of a seven-foot wrought iron post topped by a decorative electric lantern. The sign, itself, hangs from a metal arm extending from the post.

Eight hundred of the new signs were ordered for the drive, according to McCabe, and more had to be special ordered.

"We believe that now is an especially good time," McCabe said, "for people to list their homes. The ever-increasing prices of new homes have drastically raised the value of all existing homes, which means that today people can get a much better price for the home they sell. And, because financing costs are lower now than they have been in some time, they can realize just that much more cash from the sale."

WALKER & Lee, which has sold over 100,000 homes since it was founded in 1941, offers a number of exclusive advantages to both buyers and sellers, McCabe said.

He indicated that the firm's Guaranteed Sale trade-in program has proved to be among the most successful in the country and can guarantee the sale of a home at its full market price.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

In a move to meet the expanding container traffic at the East-West Container Terminal, the Los Angeles Harbor Department intends to purchase a 26-acre plot of land in San Pedro for $765,000 then swap it for a 16-acre plot located near the container terminal.

Movement of containers through the terminal is already 100 per cent more than original estimates and is expected to increase even more.

The Harbor Department will buy a parcel of land on Gaffey Street and exchange it for property now occupied by Westoil Terminals Company at the rear of Berths 128-131.

Redevelopment of the Westoil site will necessitate the relocation of Wilmington-San Pedro Road to parallel the Harbor Freeway.

Present plans call for the addition of 120 acres of backland and adding 1,700 feet of wharf to the terminal's present 2,600-foot long wharf. When completed, the facility will accommodate five ships simultaneously at Berths 121 through 131.

Cost of the expansion program is estimated at $8 million to $10 million. Completion is expected to be in 1973.

The terminal expansion also will require the relocation of the Sun Lumber Company mill, storage, and distribution yard from Berths 122-124 to Berth 187 formerly occupied by the Vegetable Oil Products Co.

USC has received a $385,000 Sea Grant from the National Science Foundation to launch a major new effort in ocean research.

According to Dr. Richard B. Tibby, director of USC's Catalina Marine Science Center, the university is the first in California to receive such a grant.

The funds will be used to develop a program specifically directed to the development and management of ocean resources.

"It is applied oceanography, rather than basic science research," Dr. Tibby said.

CRESCENT TERMINALS, INC. has signed a 10-year lease for 200,000 square feet of area on Berths 206-207 in the Port of Long Beach.

The lease covers the use of transit sheds, nearly 15 acres of paved open area and 1,200 feet of wharf. The facility will be used by the eight-ship fleet of Toko Kaiun Kaisha of Tokyo, a leading carrier of steel products.

The company estimates it will berth more than 100 ships at the facility during the coming year.

IN-PORT-ANT PEOPLE: Louis F. Lobst Jr., manager of Marine Development for the City and Port of Long Beach and outgoing president of the American Society for Oceanography, has been elected to the board of directors of the National Oceanography Association.

The association has 2,000 members, including 400 corporations and companies engaged in marine science and technology.

Beach Parking Pass Awaits Lusk Home Buyers

A "fringe benefit" is being enjoyed during the summer beach season by home owners at Lusk Homes-Huntington Seacliff in Huntington Beach, E. G. Warmington, director of marketing and sales, has reported.

Each family in the Huntington Seacliff community is given a pass for free parking privileges at a beachside parking lot.

"It's particularly convenient to know that the beach is just a short distance away and there's a parking spot available, free of charge," Warmington said.

Beach proximity, combined with two adjacent golf courses, has been one of the community's prime attractions, and the parking privileges enhances this further.

Schools, churches and shopping centers are all within easy access of Lusk Homes-Huntington Seacliff, with the San Diego, Garden Grove and Santa Ana freeways just a few minutes away.

FIRST single-family development of a 740-acre planned community, Huntington Seacliff will eventually provide residences for 6,000 families.

Four model homes are on display, showing off such traditional Lusk Homes features as vaulted, rough-hewn wood beam ceilings, pass-through patio windows, floor-to-ceiling fireplaces and luminous kitchen ceilings.

One of the nation's largest family-owned home building firms, Lusk Homes has constructed more than 10,000 homes valued in excess of a quarter billion dollars.

Other current developments are Harbor View Hills, Corona del Mar; Nohl Ranch, Anaheim and Orange; Country Hills, La Habra and Fullerton; Countrywood, Hacienda Heights; and Stonegate, Cerritos.

S.D. Zoo Buses Now Using LNG

In an effort to reduce exhaust fumes and increase the comfort of both bus passengers and pedestrians, the San Diego Zoo has converted its entire fleet of 18 guided tour buses to the use of Liquefied natural gas (LNG) fuel.

The new fuel is expected to reduce the amount of pollutants emitted into the air by at least 85 per cent, according to studies by the San Diego Gas & Electric Co.

Zoo superintendent of construction and maintenance Harold Barr said the 18 buses were converted to the use of LNG at a cost of $800 each.

A 60-day trial period was instituted late last year by San Diego Gas & Electric to test the suitability of the new fuel, Barr added. When the trial period was terminated successful, the decision was made to convert the remaining 17 buses.

Conversion of the last vehicle — including an insulated fuel tank, a vaporizer to change the liquid back to gas, regulators, and a natural gas carburetor — was accomplished last week.

All Wright—A No-Hitter!

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

The incredibility and unreality of the Angels' heavenly '70 reached epidemic proportions Friday night.

Clyde Wright broke out in a rash of hitless innings.

Nine of them to be precise and they added up simply and neatly to No-Hitter. It was Angels 4, Oakland 0 and a lot more.

Thus, whatever pyrotechnics develop on this Fourth of July they will be utterly anti-climactic.

Wright this season has been as inexplicable as his date with destiny Friday evening, achieved before 12,131 who began chorusing with cheers of excitement at the outset of the seventh inning.

This is a pitcher who was devoid of confidence and self-respect last season when his ERA plunged to 4.10 and his won-lost record reached a more abysmal 1-8.

Now he is a pitcher with a 12-5 record and there will be voices of outrage from Anaheim and environs if he is not in Cincinnati 10 days hence performing for the American League All-Stars.

By the most remarkable

ANGEL OF DAY
CLYDE WRIGHT, who else?

of coincidences, Wright was inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame in pre-game ceremonies at home plate.

Then he went and threw as if he were bent on gaining admission to the real thing at Cooperstown.

The voice in the dugout at 10 p.m. — after the drama, after the tension and after the unrestrained applause — belonged to Clyde Wright and it was muted by a tone of uncertainty and disbelief.

"I am all shook up," he said, mimicking a line once made famous by Elvis Presley. "There is no way to describe the feeling deep down inside."

"I started thinking about it in the sixth inning when I looked up at the scoreboard and saw all those zeroes. I went into the runway and tried to brush it from my mind but I couldn't. There was just no way."

By this time, the Angels held a 4-0 advantage and there was no doubt about the outcome. All the pressure was put to bear upon Wright.

The seventh inning went easily and rapidly although there were moans and anguished outcries when Reggie Jackson sent Jay Johnston 400 feet to deep center to surround his towering fly.

The Athletics also went down in order in the eighth and there was a standing

U.S. Pair Row to Big Win

McKibbin, 'Blom
Crush Englishmen

Combined News Services

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, ENGLAND — European double sculls champions Tom McKibbin and John Van Blom of Long Beach, Calif. routed an English pair by a quarter-mile to move into the finals of the Henley Royal Regatta Friday.

McKibbin and Van Blom glided home ahead of Chris Prime and Jim Crocker, a British pair from Caius College, Cambridge in a time of 7:41 in one of the biggest winning margins at Henley.

"We thought we would just like to see what we could do on this course. I guess it shows that we're not very gentlemanly, doesn't it? But the course is a lot of fun to row, especially in a race like that when you can look around," McKibbin said.

The American Olympians waited at the finish line for the exhausted English pair to come in.

"It was a lot of fun. Maybe the finals will be tougher," said McKibbin.

The Yale lightweight eight beat a crew of Irish policemen by 1 1/3 lengths over the one-mile, 550-yard course and will meet England's crack Leander crew in the semifinals today.

Two other American entries, a four-man crew from the University of Pennsylvania and an eight from Holy Spirit High in Absecon, N.M. were eliminated.

Penn fell to an English crew, the Thames' Tradesmen Rowing Club, by 2 1/4 lengths.

Holy Spirit fell to its old Canadian rivals, Ridley College of St. Catharines, Ont. by four lengths.

AT MARINE STADIUM

Speed Accented Today

The Southern California Speedboat Club's 21st Independence Day Regatta will be held today at Marine Stadium.

Gates open at 8 a.m. and Grand Marshall Pete Rothschild will officially open the course to the first heat of racing at 11 a.m. Rothschild is the 1969 Pacific Offshore Boat Racing Assn. champion and the points leader for 1970.

Along with the day's racing, the SCS has some patriotic additions to the program.

The Grand Land Singers will precede the racing events with a selection of American songs climaxed by the National Anthem.

During intermission, daredevil Jose Canuc will attempt to jump over five racing boats in his outboard powered hydro-cycle. Rothschild's offshore power boat, Thunderballs, will be on display in the pits.

Twenty-two heats of inboard circle boat races in 11 classes of hydroplane and ski-type hulls are scheduled. Among them will be featured the fuel-burning 5-liter hydroplanes, capable of over 140 mph on the straights.

Also featured will be the Unlimited flatbottom class boats which include fuel-burning automotive engines and the large Allison aircraft engines.

Surgery on Knee Looms

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — America's Billie Jean King, bothered by a leg cramp Friday in her Wimbledon singles final defeat by Margaret Court, said she may need another knee operation that might end her tennis career.

"Because of this bad right knee, I keep getting leg cramps," she told newsmen after losing 14-12, 11-9 in a battle that raged over two-and-a-half hours and left the wind-blown crowd of 17,000 drained of emotion.

"I've got to know when I go on court that I can play at 100 per cent."

The Long Beach, Calif., tennis star said she would be seeing her doctor in the United States "in a couple of weeks." Billie Jean said her left knee, which has already had surgery, "is just fine now."

She said, "I'm not sure if I'm playing at Forest Hills. I'm not sure I have any further plans."

Dressed in a pink tennis shirt and sky blue miniskirt, Mrs. King added: "I'm 26 and going to be 27 in November. I'd like to see a bit more of the continent before I quit and I'd like to win the women's titles in Paris and Germany."

But, she said, "I don't know if I want to go through the mental anguish — not so much the physical pain — of recuperating from another knee operation. After the last one I couldn't sleep and I lost 20 pounds."

Billie Jean damaged both knees in a 1963 automobile accident, she said. The men's singles title will be decided today between John Newcombe and Ken Rosewall.

The women's match was the longest at the mecca of tennis since Louise Brough beat Margaret Du Pont, 10-8, 1-6, 10-8, in 1949.

The victory was worth $3,600 to Mrs. Court. Billie Jean earned $1,800.

Mrs. Court said she played her finest match at Wimbledon.

But she said her heavily taped left ankle, which didn't bother her, might have caused problems if the match had gone to three sets. She had pain-killing injection before the match.

"Whether I would have lasted three sets or not, I don't know," she said. "When I came off court at the end, I got a cramp in the ankle quite badly."

Dressed in a yellow trouser suit and flushed with the excitement of her victory — "I'm a bit tired but thrilled" — Margaret said the ankle, which she twisted during a match Monday, "started to ache a bit in the last four or five games."

But, she said, "it didn't hurt to the point where I couldn't walk on it."

The top-seeded player said she was given four injections of a pain killing drug in the ankle just before the match.

Newcombe and Tony Roche won the men's doubles title by disposing of fellow Aussies Fred Stolle and Rosewall, 10-8, 6-3, 6-1.

Dodgers Brew Up Their Own Storm

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — Jim Brewer, the leading resident of Broken Arrow, Okla., surveyed the swirling gusts of wind at Candlestick Park Friday afternoon, then announced, "The wind sure doesn't blow like this on the plains of Oklahoma."

Brewer, the relief ace of 1969 with 20 saves and seven wins, conquered the wind and dust — and the Giants — as the Dodgers came from behind to bounce San Francisco, 8-6, as Willie Davis had a four-hit day which included his second homer of the season.

"I never saw wind like this," Brewer said after picking up his third win in four decisions. "When I wound up with the bases loaded I knew they (the umpires) were going to call a balk. I didn't think I was going to be able to stand up. I had all I could do to just get the ball up there."

"Really, I'm amazed I got 'em out. All I was trying to do was throw the ball. The heck with the corners. I was just trying to get it over the plate, and as soon as I throw I never even saw where it went because of the dust."

Charlie Fox, the San Francisco manager, panned the 30-mile-per-hour wind, saying "It's been a lot worse than that here."

But when you win it's not so bad, I guess. The way Brewer pitched it didn't look like it bothered him much."

Brewer, whose prime weapons are a screwball and savvy, has worked 10 times in a row without giving up a run, a period covering 13 innings.

He got himself into a tight spot in the seventh when two walks and a single loaded the bases.

"I don't really know why, but I never pitch well at Candlestick," the 32-year-old Brewer drawled, "but getting out of that jam sort of gave me a lift."

Brewer took over in the seventh from starter Don Sutton who was tagged for six runs, five of them the result of homers. Sutton served up three home run pitches, two to Bobby Bonds as well as a three-run pinch shot by Bob Taylor. Sutton now has given up 19 home runs.

Bond's two homers helped the Giants to a quick 3-0 lead but Davis, together with four San

DODGER OF DAY
WILLIE DAVIS had four hits, including second home run, and three RBI as Dodgers beat San Francisco, 8-6.

Francisco errors, got the Dodgers rolling against Juan Marichal, who finally left after the sixth without a decision.

"I'd say Marichal has a few of those coming," manager Walt Alton said with satisfaction. "I'm sure not feeling sorry for him." Juan had whipped the Dodgers 19 out of 20 decisions at Candlestick.

In the fifth, with the Dodgers still trailing, 3-2, Manny Mota singled and Willie D. sent a liner to the fence in left-center. It was an easy triple on the fast Astro Turf and it scored Mota with the tying run.

Then when third base umpire Stan Landes, who weighs in at something approaching 250 pounds got in the way of Hal Lanier's relay throw to third, Davis scored.

At first a generous official scorer ruled Davis' blow an inside-the-park homer, but after Willie got a legitimate home run to open the seventh, the scorer changed it to a triple and an error on Lanier.

"Home run... triple... what's the difference?" smiled a pleased Davis after his second four-hit day of the season. "Just so we win, that's the important thing."

"I'm really pleased the way things are going the last few games. I'm mak-

Braves' Big Lum(ber) Saws Up Padres Twice

NFL STRIKE THREAT CALLED IRRELEVANT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League Players Assn. is threatening to shut down the pre-season training camps for the second time in the last three years, but the threat was dismissed by an owners' spokesman Friday as "irrelevant."

Tex Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys and the head of the owners' committee, said "that action (withholding of services) at this time is really irrelevant. That possibility has been repeated quite often by those not participating in the negotiations and I hardly attach any news value to it at this time."

The players voted to strike if they don't get "a satisfactory contract package."

In 1966, several pro football camps were briefly closed in a dispute over exhibition game pay. The players voted to end the strike when the clubs offered up to $350 a year for five-year veterans.

Chi Cheng Topples World 220 Record

Combined News Services

Chi Cheng of the Republic of China and the Los Angeles Track Club shattered her own pending world record in the 220 yard dash Friday during preliminaries of the 47th National AAU Women's Track and Field championships at UCLA.

Chi clocked a 22.6, eclipsing by one-tenth of a second the mark she set three weeks ago in the Portland Rose Festival Classic. She equaled the existing world record in the 100 with a 10.3 clocking. However, the time is three-tenths of a second slower than her pending mark, also set at Portland.

Defending champion in the 100, Barbara Ferrell, clocked a 10.4 in her heat.

Martha Watson, formerly of Poly High and now of Tennessee State, leaped 19-5 1/2 to qualify third in the long jump. Seven members of the Lakewood Spartans Track club qualified for today's finals.

Vicki Betts (long jump), Sandi Goldsberry (high jump) and Vivian Turner (discus) entered the finals by surpassing qualifying marks.

The Spartans' 880 medley relay team consisting of Carol Hayes, Roberta Fore, Sue Harris and Corrine Stirewalt, clocked 1:48.3 to earn a lane to today. The Long Beach Comets finished next in 1:48.8.

Patty Cape of the Comets clocked a 211.9 to qualify in the 880 and Comet Sandy Dean ran a 10:22.0 in the exhibition 3,000-meter run. Monette Driscoll of the Long Beach Track Club hurled the javelin 140-10.

Abernathy Provides Royal Show in Sweep

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Veteran Ted Abernathy, just brought up from the minor leagues in a trade with St. Louis, came on in relief to win one game and save another Friday night as Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Milwaukee, 5-3, and 4-3.

The Royals scored four runs on only one hit in the ninth and 10th innings to come from behind for the first-game victory and took the second when Pat Kelly hit his fifth homer in the seventh inning to snap a 3-3 tie.

Abernathy, who reported to the Royals Thursday, pitched two innings, allowing just one hit to win the opener and did the same in the nightcap to save the victory for Bob Johnson.

ANGEL ANGLES
ANGEL ANGLES: Alex Johnson, who was mired in a 1-for-23 slump before the invasion of Kansas City and Milwaukee where the pitchers are friendly and anxious to help, owns a seven-game hitting streak, following a first inning single off Chuck Osborn. Roger Repoz is turning on the muscle. His triple Friday night and his extra base hit in each of his last five games. Oakland's multi-talented centerfielder, Rick Monday, will miss the series because of military obligations, and pitcher John (Blue Moon) Osborn still has a way to go on the disability list. Reggie Jackson is beginning to find the fence for the A's. He was hitting a home run on June 5 but has since improved his average to .233 by hitting safely in 19 of his last 24 games.

A near-capacity crowd is expected tonight at 6 p.m. with Rudy May opposing Oakland's 12-game winner, Jim (Calfish) Menter. Previews will follow, featuring several all places and hundreds of individual autographs. Approximately 4,000 tickets remain and will be on sale from 9 a.m. on...

Cincy, Astros Divide

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Houston Astros, aided by Cincinnati miscues, staged rallies in the sixth and seventh innings of the second game Friday night to halt the streaking Reds 10-4 and split a doubleheader.

The Reds blanked them 3-0 in the opener on a five-hitter by Gary Nolan, who hurled his first complete game in 17 starts.

The Astros parlayed five hits and an error by shortstop Darrel Chaney for four runs in the sixth inning and took a 6-3 lead. They added two more runs in the seventh on Doug Rader's double and left fielder Ty Cline's throwing error. John Edwards lashed a run-scoring single in the sixth that put the Astros ahead 4-3. Pitcher Tom Griffin also knocked in a run with a single and Jim Wynn cracked a double to drive in their final tally in the inning. Edwards singled home another run as Houston scored twice in the ninth.

The first game was all Cincinnati as Nolan (9-4) fanned nine and permitted only one man to reach as far as third base.

ing contact now and I know I'm going to hit the ball somewhere."

It was a year ago that Davis was hit by Marichal in the head.

"Heck, that gone by," said Willie. "Sure, I get satisfaction out of getting hits off of Marichal but not much more than anyone else."

The Dodgers got their winning runs in the eighth which snapped a 6-all tie.

Bill Grabarkewitz walked with one out and Mota followed with a single. When Ken Henderson booted the ball in left-field Grabby scored and Manny went to third; Willie D. then got his fourth hit, a single, to make it 8-6.

Brewer made it stand up, and the Dodgers now have won eight of their last 10 starts.

This one was made considerably tougher by the ever-present Candestick wind which started blowing about halfway through the game and prompted Grabarkewitz to remark:

"I feel I've just had my eyes sandblasted."

LONGEST EXPO STREAK HALTED

Brock, Allen Drop Bombs

MONTREAL (UPI) — Lou Brock hit a three-run homer and Richie Allen added a two-run homer Friday night to lead St. Louis to a 9-7 victory over Montreal that snapped the longest winning streak in Expo history at five games.

Brock's homer highlighted a five-run second inning and Allen's homer, his 22nd of the year, came in the seventh inning.

Gary Sutherland and Bob Bailey each drove in a pair of Montreal runs in the sixth, cutting the margin to 7-5, but Allen provided the cushion in the seventh with his 22nd homer following a double by Joe Hauge.

Montreal rebounded with two more runs in the eighth on doubles by Coco Laboy and Sutherland and an RBI single by pinch-hitter Ron Brand before reliever Alan Hrabosky ended the threat, preserving Chuck Taylor's third victory against five losses.

DODGERS WINNERS...

DODGER DOINGS: Steve Garvey joined the club before the game, and Alton Smith Garvey will be employed when Bill Sadecki goes into the service after Wednesday's game in Houston.

Originally, Sadecki wasn't going to leave until July 11, but he's had a change in orders.

Garvey reports shortstop Bobby Vahentine and outfielder Tom Paciorek are enjoying "super sessions" at Spokane.

"We had a little slump," he recalled when the Spokane club dropped nine of 10 games. "But the second place team lost 10 of 11 so we picked up half a game."

When Garvey said the news he was coming back to the big club his manager at Spokane, Tommy LaSorda said, "I'm sorry to have to send you down."

"I know it's tough going from a club that's 10 games in front to one that's 10 games behind."

Vice president Al Campanis is off to a rocky start on the trip. His suitcase was sent on the wrong plane out of Los Angeles, and then he ripped a hole in the only coat he had climbing out of a cab.

Giants manager Charlie Fox says Marichal is looking better every time he pitches and is bouncing back well after his illness at the start of the season. "The doctor says he's fine, so that's good enough for me," said Fox.

Crawford is going for his 12th and 13th of the season. Willie Mays, who had a single in four tries Friday, now is only 10 hits away from the exclusive 3,000-hit club. Friday's game was the Giants' 1000th in San Francisco.

NO-HITTER BY WRIGHT

ovation for the Angel pitcher when he trudged slowly, head down, back to the dugout.

Then it was the ninth and Frank Fernandez was called to pinchhit for Jim Roland. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Now two strikes and then more groans at ball four.

Campy Campaneris stepped in and he took a venomous swing at the first pitch and it darted like a bullet straight into Jim Fregosi's glove at shortstop. Spontaneous joy at the Big A.

Now it was only Felipe Alou and his menacing .308 average standing between Wright and a shower of champagne.

The first pitch was a curve in on his hands and Alou swung. The ball skimmed alertly right to Fregosi, who flipped to Sandy Alomar at second and Alomar's relay to Jim Spencer at first base was in plenty of time.

Sheer delirium at the Big A.

"I couldn't believe it when I saw Spencer make that catch," Wright stammered, searching to explain himself at the most improbable moment of his life.

"Then I saw Fregosi coming at me with a grin on a mile wide so I just did the first thing which came to mind."

He raised his arms on high and gave an exultant leap into warm, summery night.

"I saw Koufax pitch three of them," manager Lefty Phillips noted, referring to Wright's gem. "But this was something special. Everybody knew Koufax was great. Not everybody knew Clyde Wright was even a pitcher."

Phillips sat next to reserve outfielder Tom Reynolds and did not budge the entire evening.

"I probably will be sitting next to him the rest of the season," the manager mused wryly.

"Nobody on the bench wanted any part of the scoreboard," Spencer reported. "You could have heard a pin drop in the last three innings. But we were all silently cheering like hell for him."

For the statistically inclined, Wright struck out one and walked three in pitching the first no-hitter in Anaheim Stadium history.

Belinsky went on to gain fame as an accomplished billiard player and husband of playmate of the year Jo Collins. Wright hopes to go on and become a 20-game winner.

Ken McMullen had almost as much to do with the triumph as Wright. He launched a three-run homer in the fourth inning to give the Angels their 4-0 lead after a triple by Roger Repoz and Fregosi's ground out produced a single run in the opening round.

In the Oakland fourth, McMullen delighted the audience in its early throes of expectancy by making two excellent fielding plays back-to-back.

On the first, he lunged to his left to Rob Campaneris and then he raced in and scooped up Alou's slow bouncer and barely nipped the speedy Athletic outfielder at first.

"Alou's was the toughest," McMullen said. "It was a do-or-die thing. At first I didn't think I was going to get him. Now I'm glad I did."

It was Mullen who performed the ritual of dousing Wright's perspiring brow with a bottle of vintage bubbly amid the raucous laughter that echoed in the Angel clubhouse.

A fitting ending to a night which turned out all Wright.

Red Sox Sweep Indians

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox scored the winning run on Dick Schofield's scratch hit and Graig Nettles' throwing error in the seventh inning on the way to a 5-4 victory over Cleveland that completed a Friday night doubleheader sweep.

Ray Fosse, whose 23-game hitting streak was stopped in the opener, hit a three-run homer to give Cleveland a 4-0 lead in the third inning of the nightcap. But the Red Sox fought back and finally moved into a 4-4 tie in the seventh on a single by George Scott and Jerry Moses' triple.

Who's King of the Putters?

NEW YORK (U) — George Low, fat, fiftyish and frisky, takes off this weekend for St. Andrews, Scotland, where he plans to challenge Britain's Paul Trevillion for golf's putting championship of the world.

"I'll putt him on land or sea, with clubs, rakes or garden hoses," the veteran U.S. pro said Friday, throwing down the gauntlet to the man whose revolutionary putting ideas (sort of a croquet style) have shaken up the staid golf establishment of the British Isles.

"I'll need a little practice" — say, about 15 minutes.

"I don't care what size ball we use — the British or the bigger American ball — so long as the cup is 4 1/4 inches. I'll even putt with my heel."

"I haven't missed a four-foot putt in three years," Trevillion brags.

He recently challenged Masters champion Bill Casper, who for years has been rated one of the best putters on the U.S. tour.

"I would beat Casper every day of the week," Trevillion said. "You see, Casper has a faulty method. He can't guarantee every four-foot putt."

Arnold Palmer gives Low credit for teaching him the putting stroke that made him golf's king of the sixties. Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros and other top pros are constantly seeking Low out for advice.

"I'd like to make it a home-and-home contest," Low said. "I hope Trevillion and his friends bring their pocketbooks."

Low's touch seems to improve with the escalation of the side bets.

101-DEGREE HEAT

Caponi and Mann Still Deadlocked

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (U) — Defending champion Donna Caponi and 1965 winner Carol Mann battled each other and stifling heat Friday but remained deadlocked for the lead at the halfway point of the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship.

Both shot one-under-par 70s to go with opening 69s for 36-hole totals of 139. Their closest competitors, veteran Kathy Whitworth and amateur Cynthia Hill, were three strokes behind.

Miss Mann finished first, getting into the clubhouse before the temperature reached a high of 101. Miss Caponi teed off shortly before 2 p.m. and it was 7:15 p.m. before she finished as play slowed to a crawl in the sweltering heat.

A bogey on the final hole cost Miss Caponi a chance for undisputed first place. The attractive 25-year-old brunette missed the green with her second shot on the 390-yard, par 4 No. 18, chipped past the cup about six feet and missed the putt that would have put her in the lead.

Forty players shooting 150 or better qualified for the final two rounds today and Sunday. The previous record low figure for the cut in this championship was 156 two years ago.

Long Beach's two hopefuls, 15-year-old Laura Baugh and Mildred Stanley, failed to qualify for the final 36 holes. Miss Baugh carded a 78 Friday for a 152 total while Mrs. Stanley missed the cut by seven shots, shooting 80 for a 157.

Mary Shea of Los Angeles also lost out, posting a 76 for 151.

COAXING DIDN'T HELP

Donna Caponi urges ball to drop in U.S. Women's Open, but coaxing was in vain and the bogey cost the defending champion undisputed first place.

Walk Becomes Hit, Peters Mack Hero

Norwalk pitcher Wayne Montgomery, trying to intentionally walk Dan Peters, instead saw the Belmont Savings outfielder hit what would have been ball four into right field in the last of the seventh inning Friday to give his team a 1-0 Connie Mack victory.

The last game of a day-long set of four contests at Blair Field was a tight pitching duel between Montgomery and Mike Heinen until the seventh.

Willie Moore reached base safely on an error and Kim Hannaford followed with a single before Peters came to bat.

League-leading Hawaiian Gardens increased its record to 13-1-1 as Adrian Witt stopped Johnson Sawdust on two hits, 8-0.

Stan Bahnsen, who toiled seven innings, was tagged with the loss, his sixth in 12 decisions. He yielded six hits, walked five and struck out three, as the

Bucs Outlast Cubs, 16-14, in 40-Hit Barrage

CHICAGO (UPI) — Gene Alley capped a three-run ninth-inning rally with his second homer of the game Friday as the Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged the Chicago Cubs 16-14 in an eight-homer 40-hit barrage.

Manny Sanguillen's sacrifice fly brought in Roberto Clemente with the run that broke a 13-13 tie and Alley then hit his second homer in consecutive innings to bring in Willie Stargell.

Clemente also hit two homers, while Al Oliver and Bill Mazeroski collected one apiece as Chicago lost its 13th game in the club's last 14 starts.

Clemente started Pittsburgh's 22-hit attack with his fifth homer of the year in the first inning and blasted a three-run homer in the second as Pittsburgh scored six runs.

Chicago came right back with six runs in its half of the frame, featured by Billy Williams' sixth career grand slam homer. The Cubs belted 18 hits in the contest, including a homer by Willie Smith.

The Bucs rallied from a 13-10 deficit with three runs in the eighth inning as Alley and Mazeroski homered off reliever Phil Rodriguez.

The Pirates continued their attack against Phil Reagan in the ninth and pinned the Cub reliever with his fourth consecutive loss. Dave Glust, the sixth Buc hurler, won his fifth in a row for a 5-0 record.

Skidding Yanks Drop 4th in Row

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bernie Allen belted a two-run homer and George Brunet and Darold Knowles combined to throttle New York on 11 hits Friday night enabling the opportunistic Washington Senators to take a 4-3 decision and hand the skidding Yankees their fourth successive loss.

Brunet, beating the Yankees for the first time this season, struck out two and walked one in 6 1/3 innings in pushing his record to 6-5.

Stan Bahnsen, who toiled seven innings, was tagged with the loss, his sixth in 12 decisions. He yielded six hits, walked five and struck out three, as the Senators got a baserunner on in every inning they faced the Yankee starter.

Pinch-Hit Hoists Mets Past Phils

PHILADELPHIA (U) — Pinch-hitter Donn Clendenon drilled a tie-breaking, two-run single with two out in the ninth inning Friday night, giving the New York Mets a 4-3 victory over the stubborn Philadelphia Phillies and snapping a three-game losing streak.

The winning rally started with one out when shortstop Larry Bowa bobbled Ken Boswell's bouncer for his first error since June 3. Ken Singleton grounded a single to left and Lowell Palmer relieved starter Rick Wise.

The runners moved up on Jerry Grote's infield hopper but Clendenon, batting for winner Ray Sadecki (8-2), smashed a shot between third and short, scoring both runners.

The victory pushed the Mets back into first place in the National League East over Pittsburgh, which beat Chicago. The Mets have a percentage of .5324 to .5316 for the Pirates.

The Phils nipped Rich Fokers for a run in the bottom of the ninth on sin-

High Seas Hamper Sail

Heavy weather cut off communications with the yachts in the San Pedro Channel race Friday but the leaders were believed nearing their destination, Papeete, on the 19th day of sailing.

Race sponsors said their last direct report — on Wednesday — showed Mir, a 78-foot ketch from Vancouver, B.C., in the lead.

The San Francisco-based ketch Blackfin was second, with Aries from Hawaii third and Widgeon from Santa Barbara fourth.

Blackfin serves as communications ship, but heavy winds and high seas caused her to roll so much that her generators became inoperative and her radio transmitter was rendered powerless.

Oakland Rites for Mrs. Harris

Services will be held Sunday in Oakland for Harriet H. Harris, former Long Beach club woman and daughter of the former mayor of Long Beach, Dr. Oscar Hague. Mrs. Harris, 61, died Thursday in Lafayette, Calif., where she made her home.

She was a graduate of Long Beach schools and USC, and was active in the Union League. Her late father was mayor from 1927-1930, and went on to serve as state controller and a county supervisor.

Mrs. Harris is survived by a son, R. Jeffrey Harris of Sierra Madre; a daughter, Mrs. Phillip Berry of Berkeley, three grandsons, and two sisters, Mrs. Sterling Pillsbury of Long Beach and Mrs. Lulu P. Switzer of Lafayette.

The family suggests contributions to the Cancer Research Fund at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

History Prof at CSLB Dies

Dr. Bernath, who joined the local faculty in September, 1968, became ill a year later and has been on leave since. He wrote "Squall Across the Atlantic," published by the University of California Press and received the Civil War Round Table Fellowship for 1967-68. In 1963, he won the Barnham Prize.

He survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Bernath of Beverly Hills. Services are pending at Mt. Sinai Memorial Park, Los Angeles.

Ex-Padre Shortstop Hit, Kicked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two men, one a former professional baseball player, were beaten Friday in San Francisco's Mission district.

Robert McCarthy, 27, former shortstop for the San Diego Padres and now a Washington, D.C. accountant, was treated at Mission Emergency for multiple facial contusions. Tom Murphy, 26, suffered similar injuries.

Both men said they were on their way to get a beer and play pool when several youths surrounded and repeatedly kicked and hit them.

The incident took place near the scene of the recent beating of Indian leader Richard Oakes. Oakes led two invasions of Alcatraz island.

The ban was lifted Friday after news of the jury's action, which was supposed to be secret, leaked out. The jury voted 9 to 2 against the film.

The theme of the film, which was shown Tuesday, is the abduction, rape and murder of a little vietnamese girl by four American soldiers.
